A Silver Lining Behind a Rejection: “Self Portrait and His Pipe”

Who would have thought that rejection could become a valuable artwork? Affandi was prompted to paint the theme of 'Self Portraits' by the rejection he experienced at an exhibition venue in Bandung. During that period, art venues only welcomed members of the Dutch community and a few Indonesian artists who painted in the accepted Mooi Indie style.

Until the end of his life, Affandi analyzed his physicality because of this rejection. He was obsessed with looking in the mirror, aware of every wrinkle and contour of his face. His self-portraits transformed into visual records of his identity during various life phases. Time served as a tool to gauge the constantly changing human spirit and has continually inspired Affandi to create self-portraits. Affandi’s series of Self Portrait works presents his genuine self and portrays his imperfections without hiding any of them.

In the present lot, Affandi's face dominates the right side, while his hand tightly holds the pipe's head, extending towards the canvas's left side. The white strokes of paint resembling smoke from his pipe meld with his wispy white hair. A tense yet melancholic expression in this painting, complemented by darker color palette shades resonated in the background, twirling around his aged visage. Above his signature, Affandi put his classic 'life force' symbol, composed of sun, hands, and feet, signifying his contentment with the painting's outcome. The pensive spirit of an impassioned, elderly man was the biggest highlight of “Self Portrait & His Pipe”, showing transcending two-dimensional ideals of art and beauty to capture human existence in all its complexity. Executed in 1981, this work has been verified by Museum Affandi and is a golden opportunity to own this piece of artistic brilliance.

Village in Tasikmalaya – Nature Through The Maestro's Gaze

This exquisite painting depicts a village in Tasikmalaya, a city in West Java, Indonesia. Affandi's paintings are known for celebrating Southeast Asian wildlife and countryside, and this painting is no exception. The painting is a celebration of the natural beauty of the village, with its lush greenery and peaceful atmosphere.

Being a "naturalist," Affandi strongly adhered to the balance existing between humans and nature. He particularly recognized the potency of nature, aligning his convictions with the traditional Indonesian notion of dynamism.

Affandi's use of color and spontaneous strokes with the palms of his hands and fingers captures the essence of the village and its surroundings. The painting is an example of Affandi's expressionist style, which he developed over nearly sixty years of painting.

Affandi was known for his preoccupation with the human condition and his ability to probe the depths of human emotional experience. This painting is one of the testaments to Affandi's legacy as a master painter and his contribution to the world of Indonesian art. Spanning 120 by 200 centimeters, this present lot is accompanied by a certificate of authenticity by Museum Affandi and is a beautiful piece that would be a great addition to your collection.

Before Departure – A Brushstroke of Western Style by an Exceptional Chinese-born Artist

Lee Man Fong was considered one of the most significant and influential modern artists in Southeast Asia, successfully combining the Eastern and Western styles of painting. The majority of his life was spent in Indonesia, where he crafted a distinct artistic style that harmoniously combined diverse influences to form his serene yet fervent artistic perspective. He frequently used Chinese brushwork techniques while applying Western visual conventions to his composition. A prominent painter and curator, his innovative approach introduced the Nanyang style to 20th-century Indonesia.

He was the first non-Dutch artist to be invited to participate in an exhibition organized by the Dutch East Indies Association–it remarked his brilliance and greatness. As his artistic reputation continued to rise, he was granted a Malino scholarship endorsed by Dutch Viceroy Hubertus van Mook, whom Lee had previously portrayed, allowing him to study in the Netherlands for three years.

Lee Man Fong's body of work reflects his deep connection to the natural environment, celebrating the wildlife and countryside of Southeast Asia. As a Chinese artist, his heritage played a big role in influencing his aesthetics and creative principles, with the animals depicted in his paintings reflecting his self-identity. The choice of wildlife also provided a sense of familiarity in a foreign setting, grounding Lee Man Fong's oeuvre in images that referenced his childhood in China.

Horses have been admired for their strength, beauty, and grace in Chinese tradition. Horses hold significant symbolism in the country's history of creative expression. They embody philosophies highly treasured among Chinese scholars and artists. Therefore, Lee Man Fong's depiction of horses in this painting offers insight into the principles he deemed important.
This painting may be perceived as a naturalistic painting, considering Lee Man Fong's role as an immigrant living in Indonesia, the animals may represent a deeper and more complex part of the artist's psyche. The painting showcases his skill in observing wildlife while also celebrating his cultural paradigms and Asian values. Executed in 1940, this present lot is an important work by Lee Man Fong that showcases his versatility and mastery in painting a Western style of art.

AHMAD SADALI

Born in July 1924, Ahmad Sadali was an Indonesian painter and esteemed art lecturer, who emerged as a leading avant-garde figure in the Indonesian art scene following the aftermath of World War II. Renowned as a muralist, designer, and scholar, he stood as an authentic trailblazer in his era, known for his profound mastery over artistic forms and materials. His pivotal role in shaping the counter-cultural wave of abstract art in Indonesia further solidified his stature.

Coming from West Java, he pursued his education at the Bandung Institute of Technology, an institution he would later return to as a professor. His contributions were further underscored by the recognition he received-- The National Art Award bestowed upon him by the government in 1972. His artistic creations, widely acknowledged as integral components of the nation's modern art history, remain enduring legacies.

As one of the earliest and foremost students of Ries Mulder, a representative of the "Bandung School" of Indonesian art, Ahmad Sadali occupied a prominent position. His artistic journey played an influential role in advancing modern Abstract art in Indonesia. Particularly noted for his proficiency in Abstract Expressionism, Cubism, and Color Field painting, he showcased a distinctive style characterized by geometric forms and vibrant hues. His artworks have found their place in the collections of numerous esteemed institutions, showcasing his lasting impact. From 1950 until his passing in 1987, Sadali played a significant and transformative role in shaping the trajectory of modern Abstract art in Indonesia.

His constant drive to explore colors, forms, and spatial dimensions remained unwavering. The aspiration to translate his emotions onto the canvas occupies a prominent role in communicating his artistic philosophy, a concept vividly exemplified in this artwork crafted in 1983.

A bright pink, orange, and black, with a hint of yellow and greyish-white, are applied as shades that complement the painting. Executed in 1983, this piece features a rare choice of colors and style by Sadali that reminisce the playfulness and spontaneousness of Basquiat’s works.

SUNARYO

Sunaryo was born in Banyumas on May 15, 1943. Upon completing his studies at the Sculpture Art Studio within the Department of Fine Arts, Faculty of Fine Arts and Design at ITB in Bandung, he embarked on his artistic career in the late 1960s.

In 1975, Sunaryo pursued advanced studies in Carrara, Italy, immersing himself in the mastery of marble sculpting techniques. He showcased his works in various solo and group exhibitions both in Indonesia and on the international stage. His artistic creations fetched considerable prices at auctions, achieving record-breaking figures almost every year.

Sunaryo's artistic prowess garnered recognition through multiple appointments as an art director for prestigious events. Notably, he took on the role of art director for the Indonesian pavilion at the 1985 World Expo in Tsukuba, Japan, and in 1986 in Vancouver, Canada.

His artistic legacy extended to urban monuments gracing Indonesian cities, including the "Bandung Lautan Api" Monument and the "Monumen Perjuangan Rakyat Jawa Barat" in Bandung, as well as the Soekarno-Hatta Statue at Jakarta's international airport and the Statue of General Sudirman in Jakarta.

Emerging in a later era than Ahmad Sadali and Mochtar Apin, Sunaryo consistently upheld a profound commitment to infusing his abstract and semi-abstract artworks with contemplations on ethics, morality, and aesthetics.

In his series of paintings featuring dancers, Sunaryo symbolically conveyed the feminine essence through diverse elements, such as the presence of red lipstick adorning the dancers' faces. In the artwork currently presented, Sunaryo expertly employed shades of black, red, and white on canvas. This stylistic approach invites interpretation and encourages viewers to engage with the piece on both visual and emotional levels. Executed in 2010 on a 140 by 120 centimeters canvas, this present lot by Sunaryo features five dancers in the midst of preparing for their performance, one of the most sought-after series of Sunaryo’s works.

As one of Indonesia's pioneering realist painters, he gained recognition for his proficiency in depicting landscapes and portraits.

His artistic style falls under the category of Asian Modern and Contemporary, and his paintings have graced the galleries of the Museum of Modern and Contemporary Art. Notably, he held the position of Presidential Palace painter during the 1950s, a time that coincided with the Soekarno Era.

CHEN WEN HSI

Born in 1906, Guangdong (China). Wen Hsi was an artist, an academician and a gallerist. He studied art at the Shanghai College of Art in 1928. Wen Hsi settled down in Singapore at 1948 and became an art teacher at The Chinese High School and taught there from 1949 to 1968, concurrently teaching art at the Nanyang Academy of Fine Arts from 1951 to 1959. As a passionate art educator he had greatly influenced many of Singapore's early Chinese artists. Wen Hsi was a great observant of nature. Almost everything can be the master's inspiration to create exciting work namely, landscapes, human figures and animals. Chicken, gibbons, herons, carps and squirrels are some of his favourite subjects. Wen Hsi's constant eagerness to strike for something new led him to learn finger painting – a technique that dates from the Tang Dynasty. This drawing style has enabled him to produce unpredictable broken stroke on paper.

Besides Chinese brush painting, Wen Hsi also produced abstract compositions in oils and Chinese inks of which his paintings showed a strong influence of analytical Cubism and Fauvism with non-naturalistic and exuberant colours. This style has heightened the vividly expression and exoticism of Southeast Asia. Chen painted ceaselessly through his life. Numerous solo and group exhibitions were held in Singapore and around the world. Wen Hsi's artistic excellence was recognised. Among the many awards he had received are the Public Service Star in 1964, a Gold Medal by the National Museum of History, Taiwan in 1980, the first recipient of the ASEAN Cultural and Communication Award for outstanding artists in 1987 and received an honorary doctorate from the National University of Singapore.

Bird and Fruiting Palm

Bird and Fruiting Palm is a work created by Chen Wen Hsi, a Chinese-born Singaporean artist known for his avant-garde Chinese paintings. Chen Wen Hsi was proficient in both traditional Chinese ink painting and Western oil painting, and he experimented with various styles ranging from Fauvism to Cubism. He had a fascination for man-made objects and clutter, often incorporating them into his artwork. Chen's unique style showcased his interest in angles and the interplay of light and forms.

In this particular painting, "Bird and Fruiting Palm," Chen Wen Hsi demonstrates his mastery of ink technique and nostalgia for the Chinese aesthetic. The painting showcases a bird and a fruiting palm, highlighting Chen's keen observation of nature and animals. Chen was known for his paintings of gibbons and animals developed from the Lingnan style, but "Bird and Fruiting Palm" represents a departure from his usual subject matter. Chen Wen Hsi's artwork reflects his deep connection to nature and his ability to blend traditional Chinese painting techniques with modern influences. His paintings capture the essence of the subjects he portrays, showcasing his skill and artistic vision.

HANDRIO

Handrio was born in 1926 in Purwakarta. He started his painting career by studying with Basuki Abdullah. Furthermore, during the Japanese period, he studied with Sudjojono and Agus Djaja at Keimin Bunka Shidoso and Poetera in Jakarta. At first, Handrio's paintings were in the style of realism and Surrealism. In the 1950s Handrio has shifted to a semi-abstract style, which is analytically HANDRIO breaking down shapes in the geometric plane. This style was a different expression from the Yogyakarta painters at that time who generally painted populist themes from realism to expressionism and decorative styles. In this semi-abstract style, he analyzes many forms of still life objects and musical instruments. In its development in the late 1960s, these forms disappeared into dynamic and complex geometric spaces. The peak of Handrio's abstract style achievement occurred in the 1980s. The space, field, and color in his paintings represent the characterization of the construction of the elements themselves. In this expression, what is present is dynamics, rhythm, complexity, robustness, balance, or other images

The 6 works are early works by Indonesian master of carving Amrus Natalsya. They were all commissioned together as a special order in year 1980 by the late Mr. Husseyn Ummar (lifelong art collector and founder of Badan Arbitrase Nasional Indonesia) to decorate the backyard of his 5,400sqm house in South Jakarta.

Unlike the works in his later years, these sculptures and wood carvings were all done by the very own hands of the artist himself, which explains why it took him months to complete.

To make it more amazing, all the sculptures were each sculpted from one whole wood.

All works are still in their original forms, except for some replenishing of the faded paints, which were done recently by the artist's son, under supervision of the artist himself to ensure they look exactly like when they were just being created almost half a century ago
