1. BEFORE THE AUCTION

Pre-sale Estimates
The pre-sale estimates are intended as a guide for prospective buyers. Any bid between the high and the low pre-sale estimates would, in our opinion, offer a fair chance of success. However, all lots, depending on the degree of competition, can realise prices either above or below the pre-sale estimates.

Reserves
The reserve is the minimum price the seller is willing to accept below which the lot will not be sold.

Condition of Lots
Prospective buyers are encouraged to inspect the property at the pre-sale exhibition. Solely as a convenience, Larasati may provide condition reports. The absence of reference to the condition of a lot in the catalog description does not imply that the lot is free from faults or imperfections.

"The force of art knows no national boundaries. Art is the product of a person's exploration of the unknown world of the soul. Its highest achievement is to represent the common sentiment of all humanity."

- Liu Kang
"Eastern and Western Cultures, and Art in Singapore", 1999

Liu Kang, Chen Wen Hsi, Cheong Soo Pieng, Chen Chong Swee and Georgette Chen were the key proponents of the Nanyang style (the tropical style), a term often used to characterize the development of Singapore art in the 1950s and 1960s. They are also known as the pioneer artists of Singapore.

In his early years, Liu Kang studied in Europe where he was greatly influenced by Van Gogh and Matisse. But it was his painting trips to Bali with fellow Singapore artists Chen Chong Swee, Cheong Soo Pieng and Chen Wen Hsi in 1952 through which he had succesfully established the Nanyang style that provided the impetus for him to develop his style a step forward.

Inspired by the exotic aura and colourful ambience of the Balinese culture and landscape, Liu Kang responded by amalgamating the characteristic expressions of several masters, both East and West.

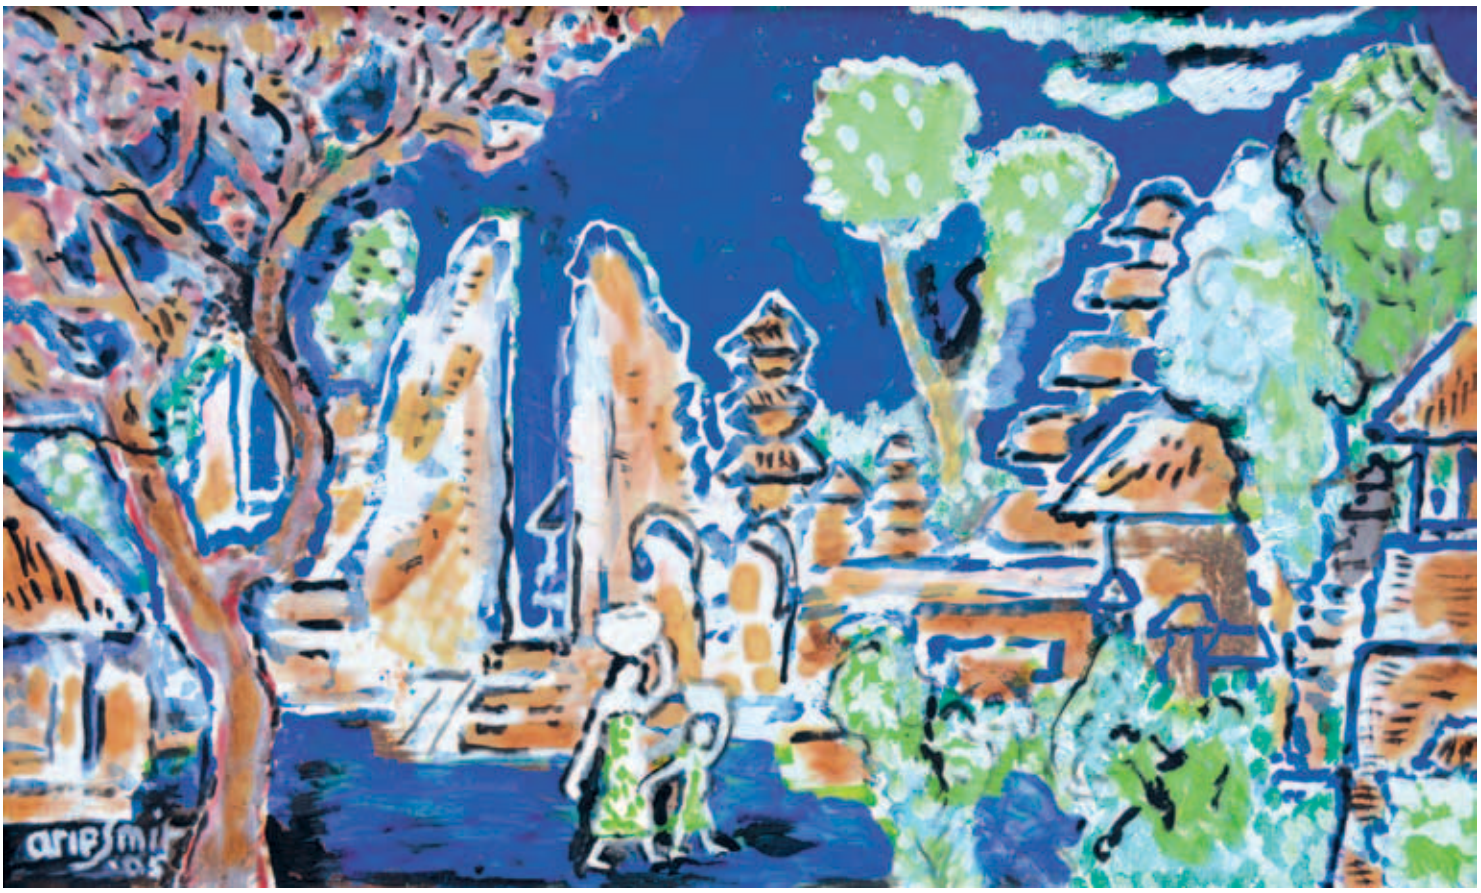

Liu Kang approached painting with great discipline. Having decided the subject matter and suitable composition for it, he would then transfer the sketched image in broad simple lines onto the canvas. He would spend more time constructing the entire painting in his mind, including the use of colours and application of brush strokes, before actually starting to paint it, since he strongly believed that every line of brushstroke is finald and beyond correction.

(source: from a conversation with the Chinese art critic delegation held on 18 December 1999)

Journeying through the art of Chen Cheng Mei

Thoughts on art and memories of my aunt

In his discussion about scholar paintings (shirenhua), on the issue of resemblance to nature and technique, Su Shi, more famously known as Su Dongbo, stressed that a painting has to go beyond representation an mimicking nature.

While the context of art-making, in particular, painting are radically different today, Su Shi's writings on art still resonates and can be applied to our understanding and appreciation of modern art. This brings me to another concept in Chinese art, particularly calligraphy, that I would like to introduce, that is, the idea of "zhuo" 拙. An extremely challenging world to translate, especially when applied to art and aesthetics, "zuo" when used in common terms, may have a derogatory connotation. The closest equivalent would be to the idea of "wabi" in wabo-sabi in Japanese aesthetics. "Zhuo" connotes a seeming lack of skill, of being unpracticed, akin to being primitive or naïve in execution and with it, conveys a sense of unpretentiousness, a lack of artifice and authenticity. When applied in art, this appearance of lacking in skills is just that, an appearance. It implies a conscious return of pursuit of the unadultered and pure built on a foundation of skills. In this sense, it is very much similar to the process of creating where one lears and unlearns everything in order to arrive at something original.

While my aunt, artist, Chen Cheng-mei may not have elaborated her views about her approach to art, her works may be understood and appreciated in the light of these two ideas, going beyond formal likeness and achieveing a sense of purity through "zhuo". At first glance, when one encounters her work, her child-like rendition of figures and pastiche of vividly-coloured shapes denoting landscapes may be dismissed as unpolished or unskilled. However, it is precisely these qualities about her works that charms and captives one's heart. Realistic representation was never something she sought; instead what she wanted was to share through her art was simply the joy of apprehending nature and the richness of life and cultures.

A strength of my aunt as a painter was her keen sense of colour and this gift was enhanced through early interactions with nature as nurtured by my grandfather, an orchid cultivator and horticulturist. Her study of colour was gained not just trough ovserving nature an dlight of the different places she had travelled to but also a voracious appetite for knowledge about the lives and techniques of artists and form foreign cultures. Whether it was Chinese art or Western painting, my aunt devoured, read and re-read whatever books including the Encyclopedia of World Art, catalogues, artist monographs and magazines she could get her hands on. (A regular subscriber of Artnews and National Geographic magazines, she would share past issues with the family). The insights gained from her journeys around the world and through books led her to endless artistic experiments.

On occasions when we conversed she would share about the artists whose works she was studying then; Two names in particular are etched in my memory, Cezanne and Picasso, for she had deep admiration for their art boundless creativity. French was taught as a second language at St Anthony's Convent where my aunt had attended school before the war and such, she would probably have felt an affinity to the vibrant artistic culture of France.

Besides playing with ink, paint, brushstrokes, form and colour, my aunt like to experiment with materials too. A series she was particularly proud of involved the incorporation of raw rubber, an imported plantation crop that became associated with Malaya and the region, with paint on canvas. After all, her late husband worked for Lee Rubber (Co) Pte. Ltd.

Adventurous and highly curious, my aunt traveled widely, observing the people she encountered going about their daily lives and analyzing the environment and landscape they inhabit. She would always carry a sketchbook with her, noting down her impressions and observations through sketching. From the east coast of then Malaya (and later Malaysia) to various parts of South East Asia including Papua New Guinea, to South Asia, China, Mexico, Ecuador, South Pacific Islands, Mauritius and Paris, my aunt covered much ground. Where time permitted in her travels, she would befriend locals and converse with them to discover more about their lives and culture, much like what an anthropologist participant-observer would do. She relied a lot on her sketches (and relatively less on photographs), recalling memories of sensations and emotions to paint the scenes she wished to recreate on canvas or print.

Besides learning about the art and cultures of the world, my aunt sought to deepen her understanding of her own cultural heritage through the study of Chinese painting and calligraphy. She took private lessons (probably sometimes after 1965 for about 5 years) on Chinese calligraphy from Tsue Ta Tee (1903-1974) after studying Western painting at Nanyang Academy of Fine Art with Cheong Soo Pieng in 1950s. Tsue was pioneer master calligrapher who was known for his versatility in handling different script.

Through him and Soo Pieng, her foundation in linework was firmly established. Her collection of ink rubbings of ancient scripts formed a solid resource for her study and practice of Chinese calligraphy and painting. The pictographic beauty of Chinese characters appealed to my aunt and she singed most of her paintings with the character 王 (wang) (derived from her husband's family name) in oracle-bone script. The ancient oracle-bone script for that character resembles a man standing on earth and I believed one of the many reasons which motivated my aunt to adopt this symbol as her signature (as opposed to using our family name), 陳 (chen) was because of its simple lines and what it resembled. Amalgamating the formalist aspects and iconographic qualities of my aunt's works, a portrait of an artist is formed. An artist who was a traveler and seeker of truth and knowledge emerges.

Cheong Soo Pieng's journey into abstraction was greatly inspired by his time spent in Europe from 1961 to 1963. This sojourn turned out to be an important turning point in Cheong's career where he began to embrace abstraction as a tool to more directly convey his thoughts and expression.

The present lot "Stil Life" comes from Cheong's distinctive assimilation of the technique and mastery of Chinese ink painting with the expressiveness of Western abstraction expressionism, a style that he developed during his years in Europe. Cheong's explorations in abstraction place him in dialogue with Chiense artists such as Zao Wou-Ki and Chu The-Chun who had also come to Europe and had been pioneering a new style of Sino-Western abstract painting.

Sadali belonged to a group of ITB-trained artists from the 1950s known as the Bandung School. Influenced by the Western-centric and modernist curriculum of the ITB, the Bandung school artists espoused the aesthetics of modernist formalism for which they were attacked by nationalistic critics as the "laboratory of the West" in the highly politicized climate of Indonesian art in the 1950s.

Sadali continued to espouse ideas of an international modernism later in life, although he was to turn to his religious faith Islam as the driving force for his art. Abstract devices were converted to the service of spiritual ideas and aesthetic sensibilities, and forms took on symbolic meaning. Sadali's interest in geometric forms is noteworthy as they recur in his works and take on the significance of symbolic forms, some of which include the triangle or pyramid that is representative of the mountain form, and the hollowed-out square that allude to an opening or a door. Yet, even as spiritualism formed the basis of his art, Sadali continued to extend his interest in abstraction. His formal language extended into the use of Arabic scripts from texts in the Koran, highly textured surfaces, decorative motifs and relief in constructed form. His abstract paintings are careful compositions answering to formal values of form, colour and texture and imbued with evocative subtlety and lyricism. And as if deliberately to turn attention to direct to formal values in his paintings, the titled of his paintings eschew imagery to allude only to their formal constitution.

Conditions of Business For Buyers

We hereby inform all those participating in the auction, that it shall be held subject to the following conditions and that anyone taking part in it, hereby accepts these conditions as applicable.

Larasati as agent
As auctioneer, PT. Balai Lelang Larasati here-in referred to as Larasati acts as agent for the Seller. Unless otherwise agreed, sales of goods at this auction result in contracts made between the seller, through our agency, with the buyer.

Definitions of terms used in these conditions
In the conditions set out below, some terms are used regularly that need explanation. They are as follows:

- the "Buyer" means the person with highest bid accepted by the auctioneer;
- a "Lot" means any item deposited with us for sale at auction and, in particular, the item or items described against any lot number in any catalog;
- the "Hammer Price" means the charge payable by the auctioneer in relation to a lot;
- the "Buyer's Premium" means the charge payable by the buyer as a percentage of the hammer price;
- the "Reserve" means the amount below which we agree with the Seller that the lot cannot be sold;
- "Forgery" means a lot constituting an imitation originally conceived and executed as a whole with a fraudulent intention to deceive as to authorship, origin, age, period, culture or source where the correct description as to such matters is not reflected by the description in the catalog and which at the date of the auction had a value materially less than it would have had if it had been in accordance with the description in the catalog. Accordingly, no lot shall be capable of being a forgery by reason of any damage and/or restoration work of any kind (including repainting);
- the "Insured Value" means the amount that Larasati in its absolute discretion from time to time shall consider to be the value for which a lot should be covered by insurance (whether or not insurance is arranged by us).

BEFORE THE SALE

Examination of goods
Prospective buyers are strongly advised to examine personally any goods in which they are interested, before the auction takes place. Condition reports are usually available on request.

Larasati is not responsible for any faults or defects in any lot or the correctness of:

- any statement as to the authorship;
- origin;
- date and age of the lot;
- attribution;
- genuineness;
- provenance and conditions of any lot.

Larasati does not make or give, nor has any person in the employment of Larasati any authority to make or give, any representation or warranty regarding the authorship, origin, date, age, size, medium, attribution, genuiness, description, provenance, condition or estimate selling price of any lot.

Catalog descriptions
Statements by us in the catalog or condition report, or made orally or in writing elsewhere, regarding the authorship, origin, date, age, size, medium, attribution, genuineness, provenance, condition or estimate selling price of any lot are merely statements of opinion given in good faith, and are not to be relied on as statements of definitive fact. Catalog illustrations are for guidance only, and should not be relied on either to determine the tone or colour of any item or to reveal imperfections. Estimates of the selling price should not be relied on as a statement that this price is either the price at which the lot will sell or its value for any other purpose.

Many items are of an age or nature which precludes their being in perfect condition and some descriptions in the catalog or given by way of condition report make reference to damage and/or restoration. We provide this information for guidance only and the absence of such reference does not imply that an item is free from defects or restoration nor does the reference to particular defects imply the absence of any others.

Buyers Responsibility
Buyers are responsible for satisfying themselves concerning the condition of the goods and the matters referred to in the catalog description.

AT THE SALE

Refusal of admission
Our sale takes place on our own premises or premises over which we have control for the sale, and we have the right, exercisable at our complete discretion, to refuse admission to the premises or attendance at the auction.

Registration before bidding
Every prospective buyer must complete and sign a registration form and provide identification before making a bid at auction. Prospective buyers should be aware that we usually require buyers to undergo a credit check.

Bidding as Principal
When making a bid, prospective buyer will be accepting personal liability, unless it has been agreed in writing, at the time of registration, that a bidder is acting as agent on behalf of a third party acceptable to us.

Commission Bids
If a prospective buyer gives us instructions to bid on his behalf, by using the form printed after the catalog entries, we shall use reasonable efforts to do so, provided these instructions are received not later than 24 hours before the sale. Bids should be placed in Indonesian Rupiahs. Bids placed in other currencies will be converted to Indonesian Rupiahs using the one month forward rate of exchange quoted to us by CIMB Niaga Bank at opening on the date of the auction and the Indonesian Rupiahs figure may be subject to rounding. The buyer's invoice will be in Indonesian Rupiahs and we shall not be liable to the buyer for any loss suffered as a result of exchange rate movements after the date of the sale. If we receive commission bids on a particular lot for identical amounts, and at auction these bids are the highest bids for the lot, it will be sold to the person whose bid was received first. Commission bids are undertaken subject to other commitments at the time of the sale, and the conduct of the sale may be such that we are unable to bid as requested. Since this is undertaken as a free service to prospective buyers on the terms stated, we cannot accept liability for failure to make a commission bid. Prospective buyers should therefore always attend personally if they wish to be certain of bidding.

Telephone Bids
If prospective buyers make arrangements with us not less than 24 hours before the sale, we shall use reasonable efforts to contact the bidders to enable them to participate in bidding by telephone, but under no circumstances will we be liable to either the seller or any prospective buyer as a result of failure to do so.

Bidding by Internet LIVE Auctions
For LIVE Auctions, the Company does not provide in-house real-time bidding service. However, bids may be placed through the Internet Bid System provided by INVALUABLE (hereinafter referred to as the "Real-Time Internet Bidding"). Any person who intends to participate must register through INVALUABLE as the appointed third party company for Real-Time Internet Bidding and is bound to the INVALUABLE's Terms and Conditions of the sale. Please note that for this "particular" sale, no surcharge of 5% will be charged on top of 22% buyer's premium.

Currency Converter
At this auction, a currency converter may be operated, based on the one month forward rates of exchange quoted to us by CIMB Niaga Bank at opening on the date of the auction. Bidding will however take place in Indonesian Rupiahs. The currency converter is not always reliable, and errors may occur beyond our control either in the accuracy of the lot number displayed on the converter, or the foreign currency equivalent of Indonesian Rupiahs bids.

We shall not be liable to the buyer for any loss suffered as a result of the buyer following the currency converter, rather than the Indonesian Rupiahs bidding.

Video images
At this auction there will be a video screen. Mistakes may occur in its operation, and we cannot be liable to the buyer regarding either the correspondence of the image to the lot being sold or the quality of the image as a reproduction of the original.

The auctioneer's discretion
The auctioneer has the right at his absolute discretion to refuse any bid, to advance the bidding in such manner as he may decide, to withdraw or divide any lot, to combine any two or more lots and, in the case of error or dispute, to put an item up for bidding again.

Successful bid
Subject to the auctioneer's discretion, the striking of his hammer marks the acceptance of the highest bid and the conclusion of a contract for sale between the seller and the buyer.

AFTER THE SALE

Buyer's Premium
In addition to the hammer price, the buyer must pay us the buyer's premium at a rate of 22% of the hammer price of the lot and transport/ shipping charges.

Payment
Following the sale, the buyer must provide us with his or her name and permanent address and, if so requested, details of the bank from which payment will be made and then pay the full amount due (comprising the hammer price and the buyer's premium) within seven days after the date of the sale.

The buyer will not acquire title to the lot until all amounts due to us have been paid to us, even in circumstances where we have released the lot to the buyer.

Collection of Purchases
Unless we specifically agree to the contrary, we shall retain items sold until all amounts due to us, or to Larasati or to any of its other subsidiaries, have been paid in full. Items retained will be covered by our insurance from the date of the sale for a period of seven days or, if by then the goods have been collected, to the time of collection. After seven days or from the time of collection, whichever is the earlier, the lot will be entirely at the buyer's risk.

Packing and handling
We shall use all reasonable efforts to take care when handling and packing a purchased lot but remind the buyer that after seven days or from the time of collection, the lot is entirely at the buyer's risk.

Remedies for non-payment or failure to collect purchases
If the buyer fails to make payment within seven days, we shall be entitled to exercise one or more of the following rights or remedies:

- to charge interest at a rate per annum not exceeding CIMB Niaga Bank base rate plus 4 per cent on the full amount due to the extent it remains unpaid for more than seven days after the date of the sale;
- to exercise a lien on any of the buyer's property which may be in our possession for any purpose and, following 14 days' notice to the buyer of the amount outstanding and remaining unpaid, arrange the sale of such property and apply the proceeds in discharge of the amount outstanding to us;
- where several amounts are owed by the buyer to us, or to Larasati, or to any of its other subsidiaries, in respect of different transactions, to apply any amount paid to discharge any amount owed in respect of any particular transaction whether or not the buyer so directs;
- to reject at any future auction any bids made by the buyer or on his behalf or obtain a deposit from the buyer before accepting any bids;

If the buyer fails to make payment within 45 working days, we shall in addition be entitled to exercise any one or more of the following remedies:

- to issue proceedings on behalf of the seller against the buyer to recover the full amount due, together with the costs of such proceedings on a full indemnity basis and with interest, charged at 4% per annum above CIMB Niaga Bank base rate;
- to cancel the sale of the lot or any other item sold to the buyer at the same auction;
- to arrange a resale of the lot publicly or privately, and, if this results in a lower price being obtained, claim the balance from the buyer together with any costs incurred in connection with the buyer's failure to make payment.

Failure to collect
Where purchases are not collected within seven days after the sale, whether or not payment has been made, we shall arrange storage at the buyer's expense, and only release the items purchased after payment has been made in full of storage, removal, insurance and any other costs incurred, together with payment of all other amounts due to us.

Guide for Absentee Bidders

Absentee Bids
If you are unable to attend the auction in person, and wish to place bids, you may give Larasati Bid Department instructions to bid on your behalf. We will then try to purchase the lot or lots of your choice for the lowest price possible, and never for more than the top amount you indicate. This service is free and confidential. Please note : Larasati offers this service as a convenience to clients who are unable to attend the sale, and although we will make every effort, Larasati will not be responsible for error or failure to execute bids. Absentee bids, when placed by telephone, are accepted only at the caller's risk and must be confirmed by letter.

Email: info@larasati.com.

Using the Absentee Bid Form
Please use the absentee bid form provided and be sure to record accurately the lot numbers and descriptions and the top hammer price you are willing to pay for each lot. "Buy" or unlimited bids will not be accepted. Bids must be placed in the same order as the lot numbers appear in the catalog.

Please place your bids as early as possible. In the event of identical bids, the earliest received will take precedence. Where appropriate your bids will be rounded down to the nearest amount consistent with the Auctioneer's bidding increments.

Successful Bids
A successful bidder will receive an invoice detailing his or her purchases and giving instructions for payment and clearance of goods. Unsuccessful absentee bidders will be advised.
