In the painting titled Boats Affandi depicts one of Indonesia's traditional fishing boats from Kusamba village. The boat is painted in shades of yellow, dark brown, and other dark colors. Seaweed clings to the boat, painted in green, indicating that it has recently returned from a fishing trip. Fishermen are also depicted, wearing traditional hats.

As a recurring symbol in his work, the Sun is placed in the upper right corner, rendered in white, blue, and yellow, symbolizing the source of life on Earth. The sky is painted with a gradient of blue, transitioning from dark to light, creating the illusion of a vast and limitless expanse.

Created in 1963, Affandi meticulously details the traditional boat in a close-up perspective, complementing the beauty of Kusamba Beach. The boat is not just a tool for the fishermen's labor; for Affandi, it symbolizes the identity of Kusamba Village, connecting the community to their marine resources. 'Boats' is considered one of Affandi's significant works, showcasing his deep appreciation for the daily lives of the local community. Hendra Gunawan

The painting "Es Dawet Seller" by Hendra Gunawan captures the everyday life of the local community, focusing on a scene where an es dawet seller interacts with her customers. A woman buying es dawet is the focal point of this painting. She is depicted wearing a patterned orange-yellow outfit, facing downward to the left, engaging with a small girl positioned on the left side of the painting.

In front of the woman stands the es dawet seller, dressed in a dark patterned outfit and wearing a round hat, holding a bell used for selling es dawet. Hendra skillfully captures the moment of interaction between the seller and her customers. Es dawet, a traditional drink from Central Java, Indonesia, is portrayed to symbolize the richness of local culture and traditions. The drink is made from a blend of coconut milk, palm sugar, and dawet (cendol). This work not only illustrates a daily scene but also highlights the strength and significant role of women in society, a theme often explored in Hendra's works.

Lee Man Fong

Lee Man Fong's A Pair of Dalmatians portrays two Dalmatians against a characteristic brownish background, a hallmark of the Maestro's work. In the composition, one Dalmatian sits gracefully in the foreground, exuding calmness, while the other stands in the background, its head turned to the right, tongue hanging out, adding a sense of dynamism and life to the painting.

Lee Man Fong's A Pair of Rabbits depicts two rabbits viewed from the side. This painting goes beyond simply portraying a pair of rabbits; it carries a deeper meaning related to the Chinese zodiac sign of the rabbit.

In Chinese culture, rabbits symbolize good luck, peace, and longevity. They represent intelligence, sensitivity, and friendliness, and are often seen as harbingers of tranquility and harmony. The year of the rabbit in the Chinese zodiac is considered an auspicious time to strengthen relationships and improve well-being. The gentle and caring nature of the rabbit is reflected in the way Lee Man Fong lovingly depicts the closeness of these animals.

Goldfish are a favorite subject of Lee Man Fong, symbolizing wealth and holding significant importance in Chinese culture. In this painting, created with meticulous brushstrokes using oil paint on board, two goldfish are seen swimming in the same direction. Their vibrant orange color contrasts with the brown background, creating a lively and dynamic effect. The background features a subtle brown tone, with a plant object in the lower left corner, adding balance to the composition. This is one of Lee Man Fong's early works where the Chinese style is more dominant.

As an animal lover, Lee Man Fong often painted a variety of creatures, including horses, doves, buffaloes, and other animals. His works frequently explore the daily lives of the Balinese people and the island's beautiful landscapes.

In 1937, at the age of 25, Lee Man Fong first experimented with oil painting in the Eastern style. By the 1940s, he became more dedicated to incorporating Eastern elements into his art. This demonstrates his passion as an artist to evolve, adapting his style to contemporary trends while also introducing Chinese traditions to the broader art world.

Srihadi Soedarsono

The painting "Gelora Jiwa, Legong" by Srihadi Soedarsono features three Legong dancers performing with energetic movements. This work showcases his signature technique, which creates the impression of dynamic motion or the illusion of movement in the dancers.

In this painting, the background is dominated by a rich and deep purple, creating a striking contrast with the bright colors of the dancers' costumes. The orange, gold, and red hues used in the clothing of the dancer on the left accentuate her movements. Meanwhile, the two dancers beside her wear costumes with purple lower garments adorned with gold motifs, blending harmoniously with the background.

The three Legong dancers, with their graceful movements and intense facial expressions, are the central focus of this work. Srihadi successfully captures the essence of the Legong dance, which is full of energy and beauty. This piece not only displays visual beauty but also conveys the passion of the dancers' souls, implied through their movements.

In this painting, Srihadi presents his signature continuous horizontal line that stretches across the composition, serving as a divider between the deep blue sky and the beach. The sky, with its dark blue tones, dominates the painting. In contrast, the beach sand is depicted in light gray, offering a strong yet harmonious counterpoint to the sky's color.

The jukung boat, a traditional Indonesian boat, is depicted in striking white against the gray sand. Known for its slender and lightweight design, this boat is often used by fishermen in coastal areas to catch fish. In this painting, the jukung boat symbolizes not only the simple traditional life of fishermen but also the hopes and dreams carried by the waves toward the infinite horizon.

Srihadi Soedarsono also explores single figures in his work, as seen in this painting titled "Salt Seller." Srihadi emphasizes the static posture and calm demeanor of the subject. He depicts a man wearing a sarong, standing with both hands supporting a tampah, or large tray. This figure is colored in shades of brown from head to toe. Srihadi highlights the figure in two ways: first, by using a dark background that transitions from gray at the top to black at the bottom, and second, by employing a gradation of light to dark brown on the hands, sarong, and feet. This technique makes the figure stand out from the background. The characteristic thin paint strokes are used to depict the tray and details such as the eyes, hands, and sarong borders with a touch of white.

Created in 1965, this painting is part of a social series inspired by the conditions in Indonesia after Srihadi returned from America. In this series, he expresses his emotions through the use of color and delicate yet meaningful brushstrokes. These works from the 1960s are among his rare early pieces and can be found in Srihadi Soedarsono's book The Path of Soul.

Handiwirman Saputra

Handiwirman Saputra is a member of Kelompok Seni Rupa Jendela, an innovative collective that plays a significant role in the development of contemporary art in Indonesia. Formed in the late 1990s in Yogyakarta, the group consists of young artists who offer a fresh and novel approach to art, diverging from the mainstream styles prevalent in Indonesia at that time. By exploring various materials, forms, and concepts, they present ideas that merge tradition with modernity, challenging conventional boundaries in art. As a member of Kelompok Seni Rupa Jendela, Handiwirman enriches the discourse of contemporary art in Indonesia with his unique and experimental works. Who says that objects without function or artistic value cannot be transformed into valuable works of art? As an artist from West Sumatra, he brilliantly turns discarded items found on river banks, used goods, and leftover items into art objects with significant value. During his creative process, objects are crafted from elements that have undergone specific treatment or have been through human experiences, including interactions with people, technology, or nature.

Dullah's painting "Pura" is a work of art that depicts Balinese temple architecture through a detailed realist technique. Using oil paint on canvas, the main subject of the painting is a grand orange-brown temple, rich in detail. In front of the temple stands a woman dressed in traditional blue clothing with a red undercloth, carrying offerings on her head. The colors in this painting create an intriguing contrast, with the bright temple and the woman's colorful attire standing out in the foreground.

Dullah's realistic technique, characterized by detailed brushstrokes, is clearly visible in the texture of the temple's bricks, as well as in the details of the woman's clothing and the offerings she carries. The background is filled with lush green trees, adding depth to the composition and contributing to the calm atmosphere of the temple, as well as the harmony between the temple and its natural surroundings.

This painting portrays daily life around a Balinese temple, highlighting the significance of tradition and culture in the lives of the Balinese people. The woman carrying offerings on her head symbolizes the religious rituals commonly performed in temples, adding a spiritual dimension to the painting.

Handrio

Handrio was born in 1926 in Purwakarta. He started his painting career by studying with Basuki Abdullah. Furthermore, during the Japanese period, he studied with Sudjojono and Agus Djaja at Keimin Bunka Shidoso and Poetera in Jakarta. At first, Handrio's paintings were in the style of realism and Surrealism. In the 1950s Handrio has shifted to a semi-abstract style, which is analytically HANDRIO breaking down shapes in the geometric plane. This style was a different expression from the Yogyakarta painters at that time who generally painted populist themes from realism to expressionism and decorative styles. In this semi-abstract style, he analyzes many forms of still life objects and musical instruments. In its development in the late 1960s, these forms disappeared into dynamic and complex geometric spaces. The peak of Handrio's abstract style achievement occurred in the 1980s. The space, field, and color in his paintings represent the characterization of the construction of the elements themselves. In this expression, what is present is dynamics, rhythm, complexity, robustness, balance, or other images

He also was a member of both Pelangi Artist Association and Himpunan Budaya Surakarta (HBS). He was well-known as a sculptor, art designer, and realist painter. His works reflect a more popular atmosphere, although he also painted natural panorama, flowers and dances. His works can still be seen on the ceiling of Mangkunegaran Palace, Surakarta.
