LEE MAN FONG

Born in Guangzhou and later establishing his career in Jakarta, Lee Man Fong became one of the first non-Dutch artists to exhibit with the Dutch East Indies Association. His studies in the Netherlands further refined his practice, allowing him to merge the expressive brush traditions of the Chinese Lingnan school with the material richness of Western oil painting.

This distinctive synthesis of East and West brought him international recognition and eventually led to his appointment as a palace artist to Sukarno, placing him among the most respected painters of his generation.

In Seated Balinese Maiden, a young woman sits with quiet composure against a softly rendered natural setting. Her vivid red headdress and flowing green skirt animate the composition, while the delicate silhouettes of bare branches behind her introduce a gentle rhythm to the background. Through fluid contours and subtle gradations of colour, Lee Man Fong evokes both the grace of the figure and the serene atmosphere surrounding her.

WIDAYAT

A pioneer of Indonesian modern art, Widayat belonged to the first generation of artists trained at the Indonesian Academy of Fine Arts (ASRI) in Yogyakarta. Born in 1923, he entered the academy as part of its inaugural class and graduated in 1954. Widayat later devoted much of his life to teaching at the institution, influencing successive generations of Indonesian artists. His paintings are distinguished by a highly personal visual language that merges elements of Indonesian decorative traditions with a modern sensibility, often producing scenes that feel both familiar and quietly magical.

Flamboyant Tree and Cow Herder presents a monumental flamboyant tree rising from the slope of a hill, its brilliant red foliage spreading widely across the upper canvas. The glowing leaves contrast strikingly with the cool blue and green tones of the surrounding landscape, while the twisting trunk anchors the composition with quiet strength. Around it, intricate clusters of plants and distant trees create a richly patterned environment, where small white cows and a herder gently animate the hillside, suggesting a harmonious rhythm between rural life and nature.

AFFANDI

Affandi was one of the most influential figures in twentieth century Indonesian modern art. Born in Cirebon in 1907, he was largely self taught and developed a highly expressive style marked by swirling brushstrokes and vivid colors. For Affandi, painting was a direct channel of emotion rather than a faithful reproduction of reality. His powerful works earned international recognition and were exhibited at major events such as the Venice Biennale and the São Paulo Biennale.

Banyan Tree (Pohon Beringin) depicts one of Affandi's favorite subjects within a lively village setting. The massive banyan dominates the composition, its tangled branches and dense foliage rendered in energetic strokes of yellow and green. Beneath the canopy stands a traditional gapura or temple gateway, where small figures gather, suggesting everyday activity around a sacred entrance. Through sweeping lines and vibrant colors, Affandi transforms the landscape into a pulsating scene where nature, village life, and spirituality intertwine.

“Horsemen”

Horsemen is another painting by Affandi that clearly reflects his expressive style. The composition bursts with dynamic energy as a galloping horse dominates the scene. Its elongated body and tense legs are formed through rapid, looping lines of white, yellow, red, and black that seem to pulse across the canvas. The mane flares outward in fiery strands, reinforcing the sense of speed and vitality.

Around the figure, the landscape dissolves into sweeping currents of green and blue. A blazing red sun rises beside a dark mountain ridge in the background, intensifying the atmosphere of heat and motion.

HARIJADI SUMADIDJAJA

Harijadi Sumadidjaja, was a prominent Indonesian maestro who joined Seniman Masjarakat in 1946 alongside Hendra Gunawan, Rusli, and Affandi. In 1965, he was entrusted by President Soekarno to study museums in Mexico, marking a milestone in his career.

His painting, "Upacara Bali" (Balinese Ceremony), depicts the traditional Melasti purification ritual. This Hindu ceremony, held before Nyepi, symbolizes self-cleansing by releasing impurities into the ocean, considered sacred water (tirta amerta). The painting shows Balinese people walking along the beach in colorful traditional attire, carrying offerings to express gratitude and devotion to their ancestors.

Harijadi employs a diagonal perspective, dividing the composition into three parts. The foreground features large black coral rocks and two seated men observing the ritual. The middle ground highlights the procession of people, orderly and vibrant, creating a sense of community. The background showcases Bali's serene natural beauty, with the ocean, waves, and a distant volcanic mountain under a bright, cloudy sky. Harijadi's realist style and careful use of natural and vibrant colors bring the scene to life, celebrating Bali's unique traditions and enduring cultural values.

His works have gained broad international recognition and were recently featured in the Venice Biennale 2024, while also being held in major institutions such as the Neka Art Museum and the Singapore Art Museum.

TRUBUS SUDARSONO

Trubus Sudarsono was a self-taught artist from Yogyakarta whose realist approach in both painting and sculpture placed him among the most respected Indonesian modernists. As a member of Seniman Indonesia Muda and Pelukis Rakyat during the independence struggle, Trubus channeled his art toward themes of nature, daily life, and the dignity of the Indonesian people. Beyond his canvases, he contributed to national projects such as Jakarta's "Selamat Datang Monument" and statues of national heroes.

"Dancer" captures one of Trubus Sudarsono's signature subjects, the elegance of traditional performers. The figure, dressed in ornate attire and crowned with flowers, moves with graceful precision, her body suspended mid-gesture. “Satay Seller”

Satay Seller by Lee Man Fong portrays a street vendor preparing satay, a beloved traditional Indonesian dish of grilled meat served on small sticks. Seated beside a modest charcoal grill, the vendor is surrounded by simple cooking tools and utensils that define the humble setting. Through this intimate scene, Lee Man Fong captures a familiar moment of Indonesian street life. The figure and surrounding elements are rendered with the artist's distinctive style, reflecting a subtle Eastern ink-painting sensibility.

MOCHTAR APIN

Mochtar Apin was a painter, illustrator, writer, and educator who played an important role in shaping Indonesian modern art. He taught at Institut Teknologi Bandung and co-founded Gelanggang Seniman Muda in Jakarta in 1946. He later studied in Europe, first at the École Nationale Supérieure des Beaux-Arts (1953–1957) and then at the Deutsche Akademie der Künste (1957–1958).

Exposure to European modernism, including the optical experiments of Victor Vasarely, deepened his engagement with Cubism and abstraction. Returning to Bandung in 1958, he continued teaching while contributing actively to Indonesia's evolving modern art discourse.

Beach portrays a reclining female figure resting quietly near the shoreline. Painted in delicate washes of pale blues, greens, and sandy tones, the figure almost dissolves into the surrounding sea and sky. The calm horizon and softened contours create a tranquil atmosphere.

FADJAR SIDIK

Fadjar Sidik was a key figure in the development of modern Indonesian abstraction. Born in Surabaya, he first studied English literature at Gadjah Mada University before pursuing fine arts at Akademi Seni Rupa Indonesia (ASRI). His years in Bali between 1957 and 1961 marked a turning point, leading him to move from semi abstract forms toward pure abstraction.

Fadjar Sidik later became an influential educator at ASRI, serving as Head of the Painting Department from 1967 to 1983 and later as Assistant Rector. His contributions to Indonesian art education were later honored by the Indonesian Institute of the Arts Yogyakarta, which inaugurated a gallery in his name in 2017.

Dynamic of Space II exemplifies Sidik's geometric abstraction. Rectangular and linear fragments in blue and violet are arranged across a warm brown ground, creating a rhythmic interplay of forms. Small triangular and circular accents punctuate the composition, producing a sense of balance and spatial movement.

SUNARYO

Sunaryo is a renowned multidisciplinary artist and the founder of Selasar Sunaryo Art Space. Educated at Institut Teknologi Bandung and later in Italy, he first trained as a sculptor and later taught at ITB. Over time he expanded his practice to include painting, printmaking, installation, and public monuments, including sculptures of Sudirman and Sukarno and Mohammad Hatta at Soekarno–Hatta International Airport.

Getting Ready (Berhias) portrays a woman kneeling on a wooden floor as she leans toward a standing mirror, delicately adjusting her appearance. Sunaryo often depicts dancers, not only in the moment of performance but also in quiet moments before or after it.

Here, the ornate headpiece and patterned costume suggest the presence of a dancer preparing herself. Soft linear textures shape the figure and interior space, while scattered white flowers on the floor add a gentle poetic touch to the intimate scene.

TEGUH OSTENRIK

Teguh Ostenrik is an internationally recognized Indonesian artist known for his expressive paintings and experimental sculptures. He studied fine arts at the Hochschule der Künste Berlin in West Berlin and has exhibited widely across the United States, Europe, Australia, and Asia. His works are held in collections including the Fukuoka Art Museum and St. Mary of the Angels Church. SU XINPING

Su Xinping is a prominent Chinese painter and printmaker known for combining Western figurative techniques with reflections on contemporary Chinese society. After serving in the People's Liberation Army, he studied at the Tianjin Academy of Fine Arts and later completed a master's degree in printmaking at the Central Academy of Fine Arts in 1989, where he currently serves as a senior professor and Vice President. His works have been widely exhibited and are held in major collections including the British Museum, the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, and the National Gallery of Victoria.

This painting made in 2018 presents a procession of monumental figures rendered in a sculptural manner, their forms recalling the terracotta soldiers. Emerging from a deep red field, the figures stand rigid and solemn, evoking both historical memory and collective presence. Among them, one figure raises a glass of beer, a small yet striking gesture that disrupts the otherwise ceremonial stillness. Through this contrast, Su Xinping juxtaposes the weight of tradition with the casual habits of contemporary life, suggesting a subtle reflection on individuality and conformity within modern Chinese society.

ANTONIO BLANCO

Antonio Blanco was a flamboyant painter born in Manila to Spanish parents who later made Bali his artistic home. After studying in New York and traveling widely, he settled in Ubud in 1952, where the Tjokorda Gde Agung Sukawati granted him land to build his residence and studio, now the Blanco Renaissance Museum. Known for his romantic and expressive style, Blanco often depicted the human figure and was deeply inspired by Bali's artistic culture.

This Portrait presents the head and shoulders of a young man rendered with loose, painterly strokes. Warm tones shape the face and neck, while touches of green and blue in the background create a soft, atmospheric setting. The subject's slightly turned gaze and relaxed posture lend the work a contemplative mood. The painting is presented in an ornate gilded frame, which enhances its refined and intimate character.

After joining Seniman Indonesia Muda and later Gabungan Pelukis Indonesia, he built his reputation through regular solo and group exhibitions from 1956 onward. He also worked as an illustrator for Mimbar Indonesia under HB. Jassin.

Renowned for his abstract depictions of stones, fish bones, and plants, Nashar was seen as a "genuine artist" devoted to art over commercial gain. He taught at the Jakarta Institute of Arts (IKJ) from 1970 and served on the Jakarta Arts Council, including as daily administrator from 1981 to 1984. His reflections on life and art were compiled in Surat-Surat Malam ("Night Letters"), revealing his optimism and fascination with the romanticism of struggle.

IVAN SAGITA

Ivan Sagita is a key figure in Indonesian surrealism and magic realism. A graduate of the Indonesian Art Institute Yogyakarta (1979–1985), he is known for haunting compositions that blur the boundary between reality and imagination. Since his first solo exhibition in 1988, Sagita has exhibited widely internationally, including in the KIAS Indonesian Modern Art Exhibition in the United States and later solo exhibitions in Europe and Singapore.

I'm Pregnant unfolds in a sparse landscape where three elderly women occupy the foreground. Two stand facing each other, their slightly bent postures and attentive expressions suggesting a quiet exchange, while another woman sits on a stool, turned away as if listening from a distance. Behind them, a strange apparition emerges on the horizon, a large floating head and faint disembodied limbs appearing half submerged in the ground.

The scene feels both calm and unsettling. The title introduces an unexpected layer of meaning. It may refer to a conversation or speculation about pregnancy, but it can also suggest something more symbolic, a hidden condition, an unseen burden, or the quiet gestation of thoughts and memories. Sagita deliberately leaves the narrative unresolved, inviting viewers to interpret the imagery through their own psychological and cultural lens.

BUI HUU HUNG

Bui Huu Hung is one of Vietnam's leading contemporary lacquer artists. Growing up during a period of war, he developed an early fascination with the traditional lacquer medium and later received formal training at the Hanoi University of Fine Arts (formerly the École des Beaux-Arts of Indochina tradition).

His works are widely recognized for their refined technique and luminous surfaces, demonstrating a deep mastery of lacquer painting. Since the 1990s, Bui Huu Hung has exhibited internationally across Asia, Europe, and the United States, establishing a strong reputation in contemporary Vietnamese art.

Royal Lady presents an elegant female figure dressed in richly patterned traditional attire. The intricate motifs of her garment are rendered with delicate lacquer textures, giving the surface a luminous depth. She holds a small bowl with composed grace, while a ceramic water jug sits in front of her and a small stack of books rests beside her. In the background, faint Vietnamese ornamental patterns emerge softly, adding cultural nuance to the scene. Through this refined composition, Bui Huu Hung conveys elegance and the quiet poetic atmosphere characteristic of his lacquer paintings.

AUKE CORNELIS SONNEGA

Auke Cornelis Sonnega was a Dutch artist deeply influenced by Indonesian culture, particularly Bali. Educated in Amsterdam, he arrived in Indonesia in 1935 and later settled in Ubud, taking over the former studio of Rudolf Bonnet. After 1951, a series of spiritual visions transformed his style, leading to emotionally charged works inspired by Balinese music and spirituality. Although his paintings were collected by Sukarno, political pressures forced him to leave Indonesia in 1957. He returned to the Netherlands and passed away in 1963.

The One Divine (Sanghyang Tunggal) centers on a solitary figure seated in meditation, emerging from a radiant, cosmic background. Behind the figure, a glowing circular aura expands outward in rippling bands of color, suggesting spiritual energy or divine presence. From the figure's body appears a blossoming flower form, unfolding like a lotus and merging with the surrounding light. The imagery evokes a moment of spiritual awakening, where the human body, nature, and divine force become unified in a single luminous vision.

RENATO CRISTIANO

Renato Cristiano was an important expatriate artist who became closely connected with Bali during the turbulent years following the Second World War and Indonesia's struggle for independence. Educated at the Museo Artistico Industriale in Rome and later at the Academy of Fine Arts in Perugia, Cristiano first gained recognition as an abstract painter. After traveling extensively through North Africa, India, and Southeast Asia, he arrived in Bali in 1955, where he entered a vibrant artistic circle that included Rudolf Bonnet, Adrien-Jean Le Mayeur de Merprès, Arie Smit, and Auke Cornelis Sonnega.

When Bonnet returned to the Netherlands in 1957, Cristiano assumed responsibilities related to the development of the Museum Puri Lukisan in Ubud. During this period he also developed a close relationship with Sukarno, the Indonesian first president and an avid collector who frequently invited him to his retreat in Tampaksiring to discuss art, philosophy, and aesthetics. Following the political upheavals of 1965, Cristiano and his wife returned to Rome. Despite leaving the island, Bali remained a lasting source of inspiration in his paintings, reflecting the rich cultural environment that shaped a crucial moment in the development of modern Indonesian art.

ARIE SMIT

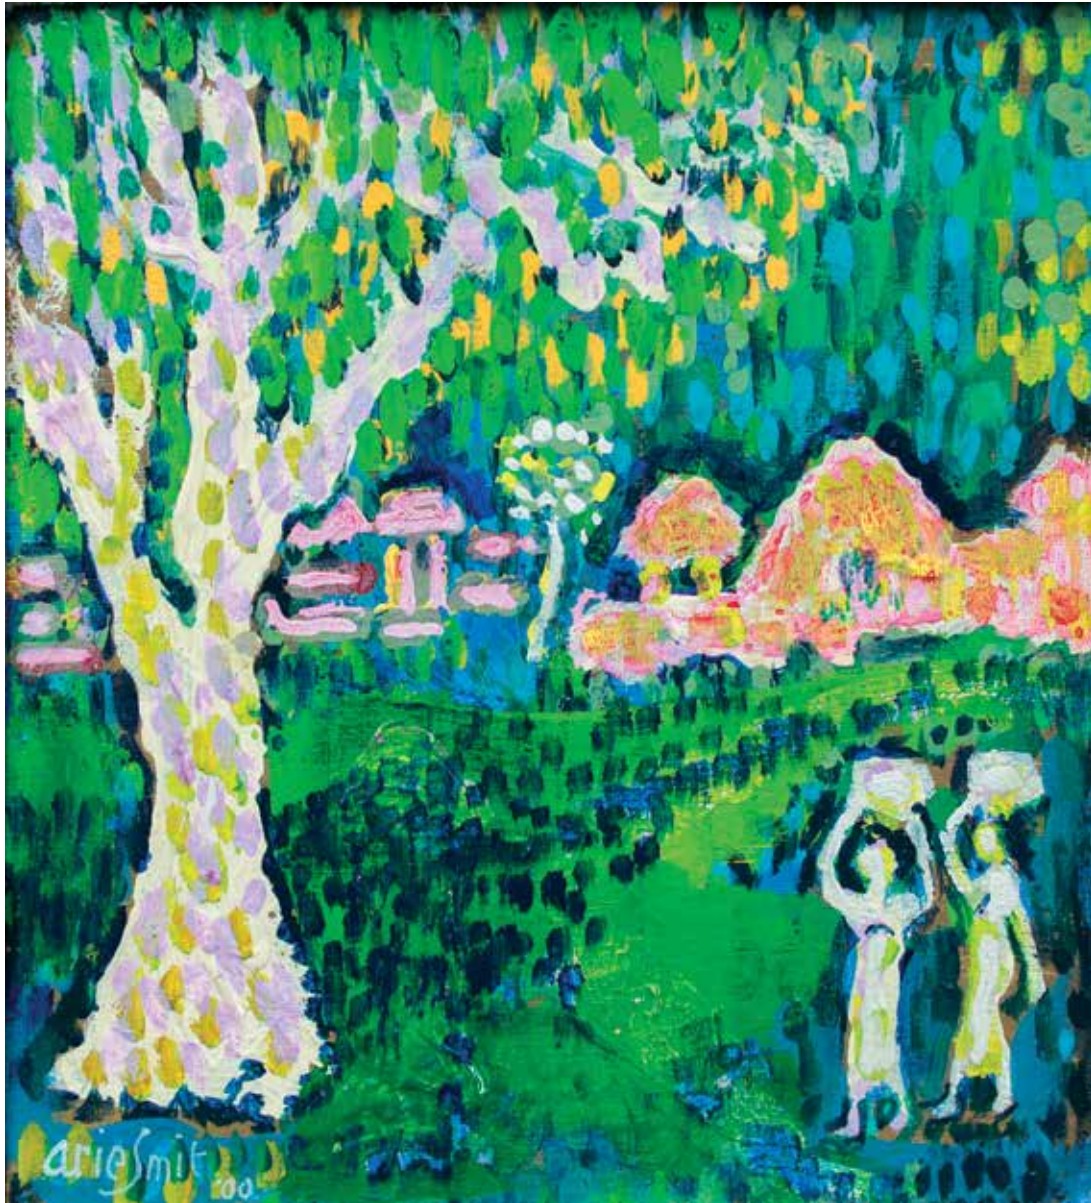

Arie Smit was born in Zaandam, the Netherlands, in 1916. He studied at the Academy of Arts in Rotterdam before working as a lithographer for the Dutch Colonial Army in the Dutch East Indies before World War II.

In 1956, he moved to Bali to fully dedicate himself to painting and later became an Indonesian citizen. He also taught painting at the Bandung Institute of Technology (ITB), inspiring many young artists.

Smit's paintings are known for their vibrant colors and expressive compositions, often depicting the natural beauty of his surroundings. His creative energy was relentless, reflected in his bold use of colors, patterns, and textures.

He is also widely regarded as a pioneer of pointillism in Indonesia, a technique that uses small dots of color to form an image. Throughout his career, Smit held several solo exhibitions, including at the Bandung Institute of Technology, the Honolulu East-West Center, and the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Jakarta.

His contributions to Indonesian art were recognized with the prestigious "Dharma Kusuma" art award from the Bali provincial government. In his final years, despite his failing eyesight, his mind remained sharp, and he continued to find peace in his home in Ubud, Bali. Arie Smit passed away in 2016.

A member of Sanggar Pelukis Rakyat (People's Painters Studio) founded by Hendra Gunawan and others, he often painted outdoors, capturing the social life of Yogyakarta in scenes from Pasar Ngasem, Beringharjo Market, and Parangtritis Beach. UMI DACHLAN

A key figure in the Bandung School of painting, Umi Dachlan was renowned for her textured abstract canvases, often layered in deep maroon, gold, and her signature purple. Rooted in Islamic philosophy, her works reflect a spiritual connection to nature and music. She studied at Institut Teknologi Bandung (ITB) under Ahmad Sadali, a leading figure in modern Islamic art in Indonesia, graduating in 1968 as only the third female artist to do so.

In 1969, she broke barriers by becoming ITB's first female lecturer, teaching there until 1999. Over the years, she moved beyond her mentor's influence to establish her own iconography, earning a place in the discourse of Indonesian abstraction alongside artists such as Mochtar Apin, Popo Iskandar, and A.D. Pirous.

Her abstraction distilled forms from nature into symbolic rather than representational elements, allowing religion and nature to become her strongest creative impulses. Through abstraction, she found the freedom to express the sensations of spiritual reflection and the beauty of the natural world.

HANDRIO

Handrio was born in 1926 in Purwakarta and began his painting career under Basuki Abdullah. During the Japanese period, he studied with Sudjojono and Agus Djaja at Keimin Bunka Shidoso and Poetera in Jakarta. Initially, his works reflected realism and surrealism, but by the 1950s, he shifted to a semi-abstract style, breaking shapes into geometric planes. This approach set him apart from Yogyakarta painters of the time, who focused on populist themes. His semi-abstract works often analyzed still life objects and musical instruments.

By the late 1960s, these forms evolved into dynamic and complex geometric spaces. In the 1980s, Handrio's abstract style reached its peak, characterized by a masterful use of space, planes, and color. His works from this period convey rhythm, complexity, balance, and a dynamic visual harmony.

Irsam was a prominent Indonesian artist and a graduate of the Indonesian Fine Art Academy (ASRI) Yogyakarta. He is recognized as a powerful decorative painter whose works are known for their rhythmic and poetic qualities.

His art frequently emphasizes the symbolic values of agrarian society, reflecting his deep connection to traditional Javanese cosmology. HASAN

Hasan was born in Sumenep, Madura, and currently resides in Klaten, Central Java. He is an artist who earned both his undergraduate and master's degrees from the Indonesian Institute of the Arts in Surakarta. With over two decades of experience in the art world, he has established himself as a prominent figure in contemporary Indonesian art.

Throughout his career, Hasan has participated in numerous prestigious exhibitions, including the KONTRAKSI Nusantara Fine Arts Exhibition at the National Gallery of Indonesia and Sepayung Indonesia at Keraton Mangkunegaran Surakarta. His achievements include being selected for the Grand Art Exhibition organized by the Indonesian Ministry of Education and Culture and receiving a nomination for the BAZAAR Art Award in 2010.

For Hasan, painting is not only a form of artistic expression but also a medium to convey his feelings about various issues affecting the world, both directly and through different media. He addresses profound and personal issues, translating them into imaginative and symbolic visual forms such as symbols of monsters, fire, tree trunks, stones, heads, eyes, mountains, and human figures. Collectively, his artworks create a contemporary surrealistic atmosphere.

RUDY PRANADJAYA

Rudy Pranadjaya was a modern Indonesian painter known for his expressive synthesis of traditional and contemporary art. Born in Cirebon, he moved to Bandung in 1964 to study under Barli Sasmitawinata and Srihadi Soedarsono, later continuing his training at Studio Ranga Gempol (1971–1975). His first exhibition was held in Surabaya in 1965.

Rudy spent several formative years in Bali (1968–1971), where he absorbed the island's rich visual culture, which later became a recurring inspiration in his works. He's a member of Kelompok Seniman Bandung and participated in numerous exhibitions both in Indonesia and abroad and undertook a study tour across Europe in 1981–1982. Deeply influenced by the traditional wayang kulit of his Cirebonese roots, Rudy's works reflect a poetic dialogue between cultural heritage and modern artistic expression.

ROBY DWI ANTONO

Roby Dwi Antono is a contemporary painter based in Yogyakarta. Formerly trained as a graphic designer, he developed a distinctive visual language that blends classical Renaissance sensibilities with contemporary pop and surrealist aesthetics. His works are often compared to those of Mark Ryden and Yoshitomo Nara, while maintaining a personal style marked by smooth, richly colored brushwork.

Antono's paintings frequently feature starry-eyed children, mythological creatures, and symbolic imagery drawn from both personal memories and popular culture. Figures such as Tyler, the Creator, Jerry Lorenzo, and Takashi Murakami occasionally appear within his visual universe. Through these dreamlike compositions, Antono constructs a world of layered symbols and personal idioms, where innocence, fantasy, and contemporary culture intersect.

SUDJONO ABDULLAH

Sudjono Abdullah was born in Yogyakarta in 1911. He was the son of Abdullah Suriosubroto, a renowned landscape painter, and the brother of Basoeeki Abdullah. As a child, he would help his father clean paint palettes, sparking his own passion for becoming a painter. Sudjono completed his education at the HIS (Hollandsch-Inlandsche School, an Indonesian-Dutch school) and later worked as a poster artist for Rex Theater in Yogyakarta.

During the Japanese occupation of Indonesia, he retreated to Parangtritis and Parangkusumo, where he continued his painting practice. In the 1970s, Sudjono moved to Kertosono, East Java, where he lived until his passing in 1993.
