HENDRA GUNAWAN

Born in Bandung, Hendra Gunawan (1918–1983) was a pioneering Indonesian artist who began painting in the 1930s. Known as the “people’s painter,” he fused traditional Indonesian themes with modern techniques, creating bold, expressive works that vividly portray everyday life. His paintings, celebrated internationally including at the Venice Biennale 2024, are held in major collections such as the Neka Art Museum in Bali and the Singapore Art Museum.

Two Women with Offerings reflects Hendra’s signature style and subject matter. Two women in bright, boldly colored kebaya carry offerings, suggesting a ceremonial setting. Behind them, Balinese temple structures rise, grounding the scene in its cultural context. Through vibrant colors, dynamic composition, and attention to local detail, Hendra captures both the spirit of ritual and the richness of Indonesia’s cultural heritage.

AFFANDI

Affandi, one of Indonesia's most influential modern artists, forged a distinctive style that rejected rigid academic realism in favor of raw emotional expression. Born in Cirebon in 1907, he was largely self-taught, honing his understanding of form and anatomy before breaking away from conventional methods. By the mid-1930s, he devoted himself fully to painting, developing his signature technique of direct application—squeezing paint straight from the tube and spreading it in vigorous, swirling strokes.

Self-portraits were a recurring theme in Affandi's paintings, each revealing not just his likeness but the pulse of his inner world. In this Self Portrait, his face emerges through the distinctive, swirling strokes that define his style—paint squeezed directly from the tube and swept into motion. Fiery reds, warm browns, vivid oranges, and yellow-greens intertwine across the canvas, shaping a visage that seems to appear and dissolve at once.

LEE MAN FONG

Born in Guangzhou, Lee Man Fong spent his early years in Singapore before settling in Jakarta in the 1930s. Trained in both Chinese Lingnan brush painting and oil painting, he became the first non-Dutch artist to exhibit with the Dutch East Indies Association in 1936. A Malino scholarship brought him to the Netherlands (1949–1952), shaping his style through European influences. He later led the Society of Chinese Artists in Indonesia, served as a palace artist for President Sukarno, and embraced the Nanyang style during his years in Singapore, blending Chinese and Western techniques.

2 Doves shows one of Lee Man Fong's favorite subjects, painted with the gentle beauty that marks much of his work. Two white doves rest on a rocky ledge beneath the curve of an old tree branch, their forms calm and graceful. Lee combines the fine detail of Chinese brush painting with the depth and balance of Western art, giving the scene both elegance and life. The soft background makes the doves' white feathers stand out, creating a quiet image of peace.

S. SUDJOJONO

Sindudarsono Sudjojono, widely known as S. Sudjojono, was a pioneering Indonesian artist, critic, and writer, known as the father of Indonesian modern art. He co-founded influential collectives such as Persagi (Association of Indonesian Drawing Specialists) and Seniman Indonesia Muda (Young Indonesian Artists' Collective) in the late 1930s and 1940s. Rooted in social realism, his works drew from keen personal observation, portraying the everyday lives of Indonesians with honesty and empathy. Over time, his vision expanded to include expressive landscapes and portraits, capturing the spirit of the country's cultural and social landscape.

Balinese Heroes presents Sudjojono's interpretation of a Topeng Pajegan dancer, a solo mask performance in which one actor embodies multiple characters: legendary kings, heroes, and mythical figures, through shifting masks, costumes, and expressive monologues, all set to traditional orchestral music. In this work, Sudjojono masterfully renders the ornate detail of the dancer's attire and the commanding presence of the performance.

Oil Palm Plantation is another of Affandi's works showcasing his signature swirling strokes, with a striking blue sun in the top right. The scene depicts oil palm trees, their trunks and clusters of fruit emerging from what first appears as a whirlwind of color and movement. GREGORIUS SIDHARTA SOEGIJO

Born in Yogyakarta in 1932, Gregorius Sidharta Soegijo studied at the Akademi Seni Rupa Indonesia (ASRI) in Yogyakarta and the Jan Van Eyck Academy in Maastricht, the Netherlands. He exhibited widely in Indonesia and abroad, including in Poland, India, Japan, Norway, Singapore, Canada, the Philippines, and Thailand. Recognized with awards such as Best Painting from the Badan Musyawarah Kebudayaan Nasional (1952), the Indonesian Government Art Award (1980), and the ASEAN Cultural Award (1990), Sidharta was also a prominent sculptor whose public monuments can be found in Indonesia, Korea, the Philippines, and Japan.

The Four Companions captures a warm, quintessentially Indonesian moment as four men share a traditional lesehan meal—seated on the floor and eating with their hands. Sidharta portrays the scene with vivid detail, from plates of fish, side dishes, and rice to glasses of tea and fresh coconut water, evoking both the taste and texture of the gathering. More than a depiction of food, the painting celebrates camaraderie, cultural tradition, and the everyday rituals that bind people together.

SRIHADI SOEDARSONO

Srihadi Soedarsono was an Indonesian artist famous for his abstract landscapes and expressive portrayals of Javanese and Balinese dancers. He infused his works with a sense of rhythm, emotion, and spiritual depth. His awards include the National Award for Contemporary Art (1971) and the Cultural Award from Australia (1973). Beyond painting, Srihadi played a key role in the development of Institut Kesenian Jakarta and served as Chairman of its Fine Arts Academy in 1974.

Oleg Tambulilingan portrays a Balinese dancer mid-performance in the celebrated “bumblebee dance,” a duet traditionally evoking the tender courtship of two bumblebees amidst blooming flowers. Though often performed by a pair, Srihadi focuses here on a single dancer, capturing the fluid grace and intricate gestures that define the dance: arms arched high, hands poised with precision, and eyes conveying both charm and playfulness. Clad in vivid yellow and gold, her costume glimmers against the canvas, while the flowing fabric unfurls like wings in motion.

"Flute Player and Water Buffalo" by Basoeki Abdullah captures a serene scene of rural Indonesia. A young boy, shaded by a wide-brimmed hat, sits atop a water buffalo while playing a flute, accompanied by a second buffalo standing close by. A backdrop of vivid red flowers adding warmth and life to the composition. The work reflects Basoeki's remarkable skill in combining precise realism with a sense of atmosphere, bringing every detail to life with clarity and grace.

UMI DACHLAN

A key figure of the Bandung School, Umi Dachlan is known for her richly textured abstract paintings that are grounded in Islamic philosophy. She is a student of Ahmad Sadali at Institut Teknologi Bandung (ITB) and became only the third female artist to graduate from ITB in 1968 and. A year later, she became the first female lecturer there, pioneering a place for women in Indonesia's modern art scene.

In "Composition with Letter Texture", Umi demonstrates her mastery of abstraction and color, combining bold reds, greens, and blues with intricate letter-like patterns that animate the surface. The interplay of geometric shapes, layered textures, and typographic forms lends the work a distinctly modern sensibility, while the harmonious balance of color and structure reflects her refined compositional skill.

SUNARYO

Sunaryo, a renowned artist from Bandung, Indonesia, is widely recognized for his contributions to contemporary art and culture. He is the founder of Selasar Sunaryo Art Space and has been honored with numerous awards, including the Akademi Jakarta Award, the Lifetime Achievement Award from Art Stage Jakarta and Jogja Biennale (2017), and the Chevalier Dans L'ordre des Arts et Lettres from the French Ministry of Culture. His works often combine refined material sensibilities with deep cultural narratives.

In “Barong”, Sunaryo transforms the Balinese guardian spirit into a striking abstract vision. The composition is dominated by a velvety black ground, its depth punctuated by the shimmer of gold and the intensity of crimson. Fragmented details—a gleaming eye, sharp white fangs—emerge from the darkness, evoking both mystery and power. The interplay of rich textures and dramatic contrasts gives the work a sense of glamour and gravitas, capturing the Barong’s dual role as both a protector and a formidable force.

WIDAYAT

Widayat was born in Kutoarjo, Central Java, in 1919. He studied at the Indonesian Fine Art Academy (ASRI) in Yogyakarta and later expanded his knowledge in ceramics and landscape studies in Nagoya, Japan. Highly regarded for his unique style and innovative spirit, Widayat received numerous honors, including the BKPM Award (1953), a cultural award from the Indonesian government (1972), Best Biennial Painting in Yogyakarta (1986), and the ASEAN Award in Brunei Darussalam (1993). His works have been showcased in solo and group exhibitions across Indonesia and internationally, including in Japan, the Netherlands, and the United States.

Widayat reimagines the underwater world with his distinctive visual language in this painting. Fish in bold reds, greens, and blues glide across the canvas, their forms distilled into striking geometric shapes and rhythmic patterns, some echoing the intricate motifs of batik. This painting showcases Widayat's mastery in blending traditional Indonesian aesthetics with modernist abstraction to create a work that is at once playful, vibrant, and refined.

HERI DONO

Heri Dono is a leading figure in Indonesian contemporary art, known for blending Javanese wayang (shadow puppets), social critique, and humor in a multidisciplinary practice. A graduate of Institut Seni Indonesia (ISI) Yogyakarta, he has exhibited in over 300 shows and 35 international biennials, including the Venice Biennale (2003, 2015) and Asia Pacific Triennial (1993, 2000), earning awards such as the Prince Claus Award (1998) and UNESCO Prize (2000).

"Harvest of the Landlord III" presents a surreal, chaotic stage where cartoonish creatures, winged figures, and hybrid animals mingle in a riot of forms. Beneath its playful absurdity lies sharp social commentary, with visual cues drawn from wayang kulit's elongated features and theatrical gestures, mixed with comic book exaggeration. A Superman-like emblem on one figure slyly points to the collision of global pop culture with local traditions. The unseen "landlord" becomes a metaphor for unseen political and economic powers controlling the fate of the "harvest," represented by the bizarre cast. War machines, fantastical beasts, and grotesque hybrids fill the earthy-toned scene, evoking corruption, inequality, and the chaotic interplay of tradition, modernization, and globalization.

UGO UNTORO

Ugo Untoro is an interdisciplinary artist whose work spans installations, sculptures, comics, paintings, drawings, and objects, often probing the depths of human existence. A graduate of the Indonesian Institute of the Arts (ISI) Yogyakarta, his career highlights include solo shows such as Rindu Lukisan Merasuk di Badan at the National Gallery of Indonesia (2019) and Poem of Blood at the Rome Contemporary Art Fair (2009). His awards include the Philip Morris Award (1994) and Tempo magazine's Man of the Year (2007).

"Fire Conductor" channels Ugo Untoro's existential energy into a vivid, almost theatrical scene. A lone blue figure stands with arms wide, as if commanding or summoning the torrent of red, flame-like streaks falling from above. The yellow expanse behind them vibrates with heat and motion, making the figure appear both vulnerable and powerful—part victim, part orchestrator. The title deepens this duality, suggesting an individual who not only endures the storm but directs it, turning chaos into an act of will.

Ugo Untoro's Self Portrait After Showering strips the figure to its most essential form, both literally and emotionally. Against a warm ochre background, a figure stands upright, wrapped in a loosely rendered white towel. The head and limbs are sketched with raw, almost fragile outlines, while two abstract pink-red shapes hover behind, hinting at thought, memory, or lingering emotion. The painting feels both intimate and distant—a personal moment suspended in an ambiguous, dreamlike space.

CHEN WEN LING

Chen Wenling (b. 1969, Fujian, China) is one of China's most internationally recognized contemporary sculptors. He trained at the Central Academy of Fine Arts (CAFA) in Beijing. His works have been shown worldwide, including at the Venice Biennale, Sculpture by the Sea in Australia, and in major collections such as the National Art Museum of China, the White Rabbit Collection in Australia, and the Houston Museum of Fine Arts in the United States. Later series like Happy Life and God of Materialism take on a more satirical tone, exploring consumerism, greed, and the fine line between human and animal instincts.

Part of the Happy Life series, Happy Life Series, ed. 3/10 shows a barefoot man in a suit holding an upturned pig in a tight, almost tender embrace. The pig, traditionally a Chinese symbol of prosperity, becomes a double-sided image of abundance and excess. The strange position of the man and pig is key to the work's meaning. Holding the pig upside down breaks the usual positive image of prosperity, making it absurd and slightly unsettling. His grip shows both control and dependency, suggesting that in a consumerist society, people cling to wealth as if it were a loved one, even when it distorts their values.

By making humans and pigs share the same exaggerated joy and mental state, Chen turns this comical scene into a sharp metaphor for how greed and material desire blur the boundaries between human dignity and animal instinct.

SAMSUL ARIFIN

Samsul Arifin, active since the early 2000s, is known for his paintings, sculptures, and installations that often center on familiar objects such as fabric dolls, pencils, and erasers. These recurring motifs are deeply personal, rooted in his upbringing in Dampit, Malang, East Java. As the son of a seamstress, Samsul spent his childhood helping his family measure, cut, and sew fabrics, shaping his attachment to the fabric doll as both subject and symbol. His works have been exhibited in notable shows such as the Pra Bali Biennale (2005), Young Arrows (2006), and the Shanghai Art Fair (2007), and he has received multiple awards for painting, watercolors, and sketches.

In “He is Story of Art”, Samsul shows his well-known fabric doll figure lying on a bright red couch shaped like a slice of watermelon. The doll, with its stitched seams, bits of stuffing showing, and wide button-like eyes, rests casually with a book titled The Story of Art on its chest and a can in its hand. The playful, dream-like scene contrasts with the doll’s fragile, stitched body, bringing out themes of comfort, laziness, and the lighthearted ways we enjoy art in daily life.

WILLEM DOOIJEWAAARD

Willem Dooijewaard, born in Amsterdam in 1892, studied at the Rijksschool voor Kunstnijverheid under Roland Strasser and Georg Sturm. An adventurous spirit, he was among the first Dutch painters to travel to Indonesia at the age of twenty, later journeying extensively across Asia, including the Himalayas. These travels deeply shaped his artistic vision, leading to a body of work that captures the character, culture, and daily life of the people he encountered.

This painting portrays a seated woman holding a traditional water vessel (ghendi), with a basket of fruit at her side. Painted with textured, earthy brushstrokes and a warm, muted palette, the work reflects Dooijewaard's skill. The interplay of light and shadow, combined with the simplicity of the setting, gives the painting an intimate and timeless quality, celebrating the grace found in everyday Balinese life.

HANDRIO

Handrio was born in 1926 in Purwakarta and began his painting career under Basuki Abdullah. During the Japanese period, he studied with Sudjojono and Agus Djaja at Keimin Bunka Shidoso and Poetera in Jakarta. Initially, his works reflected realism and surrealism, but by the 1950s, he shifted to a semi-abstract style, breaking shapes into geometric planes. This approach set him apart from Yogyakarta painters of the time, who focused on populist themes. His semi-abstract works often analyzed still life objects and musical instruments.

By the late 1960s, these forms evolved into dynamic and complex geometric spaces. In the 1980s, Handrio's abstract style reached its peak, characterized by a masterful use of space, planes, and color. His works from this period convey rhythm, complexity, balance, and a dynamic visual harmony.

NATEE UTARIT

Natee Utarit (born 1970, Bangkok) is a Thai artist whose practice critically explores the relationship between Eastern and Western cultures. A graduate of Silpakorn University, Thailand's oldest art institution, he became fascinated by the Western art curriculum taught there and its influence on local aesthetics. His works merge philosophy, history, and religious thought to create a dialogue that transcends time and geography, often embedding sociopolitical and spiritual messages within figurative and abstract compositions.

Utarit has had numerous solo exhibitions, including "Optimism is Ridiculous: The Altarpieces" at The Private Museum in Singapore (2018) and the National Gallery of Indonesia in Jakarta (2017). His work has been featured in major international group shows, such as the Bangkok Art Biennale (2018) and Thai Eye at the Saatchi Gallery in London (2016). His art is held in prestigious collections, including the Queensland Art Gallery and the Singapore Art Museum.

"Skeleton Drawings" (pair) presents two individual paintings united by their layered, linear structures, evoking a web of skeletal forms. The left panel's dark, deep tones with yellow strokes convey weight and permanence, while the right's muted blue with pale etched lines suggests openness and fragility. “Untitled (Study for Skeleton Drawings)” by Natee Utarit is an oil on paper work that continues the visual language explored in his Skeleton Drawings series. On the left side, a dense web of intersecting white and yellow lines creates a layered, almost architectural structure, suggesting weight, tension, and complexity. In contrast, the right side shifts to a darker, more open field, where fine, sparse yellow marks hint at structure but allow space to dominate. This balance between density and openness, complexity and simplicity, reflects Natee’s interest in using abstraction as a framework to examine contrasts.

BARLI SASMITAWINATA

Barli Sasmitawinata (1921–2007) was a pioneering Indonesian painter born in Bandung. He began his career in 1935 as part of Kelompok Lima Bandung and trained under Jos Pluimentz and Luigi Nobili before continuing his studies at the Académie de la Grande Chaumière in Paris and the Academy of Fine Art in Amsterdam in 1957. Returning to Indonesia, he founded Sanggar Rangka Gempol in 1958 to mentor young artists, taught at the Bandung Institute of Technology (ITB), and helped establish the Fine Arts Department at IKIP Bandung (now Universitas Pendidikan Indonesia). Barli was dedicated to both formal and informal art education, culminating in the opening of the Barli Museum in Bandung in 1992 to preserve his work and legacy.

Sifting Rice (Mengayak Beras) captures a warm, everyday rural scene with a central female figure standing in sunlight, carefully sifting rice on a large round tray. Her white head covering and traditional clothing are painted in earthy tones that blend with the golden background, evoking a harvest atmosphere. Behind her, another worker bends in labor, while chickens wander nearby, grounding the composition in village life.

DULLAH

Dullah (1919–1996) was an influential Indonesian painter best known for his historical scenes and lifelike portraits. Born in Surakarta to a family of batik artisans, he trained under prominent artists like S. Sudjojono and Affandi. His work documenting Indonesia’s independence struggle earned him the title “Revolutionary Painter” and the role of official artist and curator of Istana Merdeka under President Soekarno.

Dullah turns his attention to the still life genre in the painting titled “Guava”, presenting a delicate cluster of guava fruits and leaves. The composition is modest but refined, with careful attention to texture, color, and light. Each fruit appears weighty and tactile, glowing softly against a warm background. The painting reveals Dullah’s command of realism and his ability to elevate everyday subjects through quiet elegance.

ARIE SMIT

Arie Smit was born in Zaandam, the Netherlands, in 1916. He studied at the Academy of Arts in Rotterdam before working as a lithographer for the Dutch Colonial Army in the Dutch East Indies before World War II. In 1956, he moved to Bali to fully dedicate himself to painting and later became an Indonesian citizen. He also taught painting at the Bandung Institute of Technology (ITB), inspiring many young artists.

Smit's paintings are known for their vibrant colors and expressive compositions, often depicting the natural beauty of his surroundings. His creative energy was relentless, reflected in his bold use of colors, patterns, and textures.

He is also widely regarded as a pioneer of pointillism in Indonesia, a technique that uses small dots of color to form an image. Throughout his career, Smit held several solo exhibitions, including at the Bandung Institute of Technology, the Honolulu East-West Center, and the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Jakarta.

His contributions to Indonesian art were recognized with the prestigious "Dharma Kusuma" art award from the Bali provincial government. In his final years, despite his failing eyesight, his mind remained sharp, and he continued to find peace in his home in Ubud, Bali. Arie Smit passed away in 2016.

FADJAR SIDIK

Born in Surabaya, Fadjar Sidik studied English literature at Gadjah Mada University before shifting to fine arts at ASRI Yogyakarta. His time in Bali (1957–1961) shaped his transition from semi-abstract to pure abstraction, influenced by his response to the commercialization of Balinese culture.

A key figure in modern Indonesian art, Sidik was a lecturer at ASRI from 1961, later serving as Head of the Painting Department (1967–1983) and Assistant Rector (1984–1992). His teachings were enriched by his interactions with senior artists like Hendra, Affandi, and Sudjojono.

In recognition of his contributions, the Indonesian Institute of the Arts (ISI) inaugurated a gallery in his honor in 2017. Today, he is remembered not only as a pioneer of abstraction but also as a transformative educator.

ADRIEN JEAN LE MAYEUR DE MERPRES

Adrien-Jean Le Mayeur de Merprès (9 February 1880 – 31 May 1958) was a Belgian painter who spent his later years in Bali. He was an Impressionist and one of the first Indo-European artists to gain recognition in Southeast Asia. His love for art was influenced by his father, a marine painter, but he took a different path, choosing to paint sunlight and exotic landscapes around the world.

Although he briefly studied engineering, his passion for painting led him back to creating Impressionist-style landscapes in Belgium. During World War I, he worked as a wartime painter and photographer, but after the war, he longed for adventure and beauty, much like Paul Gauguin and his search for paradise.

In the 1920s, Le Mayeur traveled through Italy, North Africa, India, Cambodia, Burma, Madagascar, and Turkey, capturing the beauty of these places in his paintings. In 1929, hoping to find an untouched artistic paradise, he set his sights on Bali, known as the “Island of the Gods.” He arrived later that year and was captivated by the island’s landscapes and culture.

Today, his paintings are celebrated for their blend of Western Impressionist techniques and a deep appreciation for Balinese beauty and traditions.

GALAM ZULKIFLI

Born in Sumbawa, West Nusa Tenggara, Galam Zulkifli studied art at IKIP Yogyakarta and is known for his distinctive style that combines social commentary with personal reflection. His work often centers on the themes of birth, marriage, and death, using these milestones to explore bigger questions about politics, culture, and morality. In 2000, he co-founded Komunitas Gelaran Budaya with fellow artists to encourage collaboration and cultural dialogue. His achievements include being twice named a Top 5 finalist in the Indonesian Art Awards and a finalist in the ASEAN Art Award.

In The Last Supper, Galam reinterprets Leonardo da Vinci's iconic Renaissance masterpiece as a reflection on leadership, morality, and the shifting stage of global power. The faint outlines of Christ and the apostles are still visible, but the focus shifts to vivid, inserted portraits of influential figures such as Indonesia's former president Abdurrahman Wahid (Gus Dur), Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat, and other world personalities. These juxtapositions bridge past and present, suggesting that the tensions of loyalty, betrayal, and influence transcend time.

The addition of modern objects, including electronic devices on the table and graphs in the background, anchors the scene in today's digital age, where authority is shaped by technology, data, and global media. By merging biblical symbolism with contemporary politics, Galam invites viewers to question whether moral courage can survive in a world where power and image often outweigh truth and principle.

The Rolex GMT-Master II, introduced in 1982, is an evolution of the original GMT-Master, created for pilots and travelers who need to track multiple time zones. It features an independently adjustable 12-hour hand, allowing local time to be changed without affecting the other timekeeping functions. The model is instantly recognizable for its 24-hour graduated rotatable bezel and triangle-tipped GMT hand, which make it easy to read a second time zone.

The version known as the “Batman” pairs a sleek black dial with a distinctive black and blue Cerachrom bezel, giving it both a stealthy and modern look. This bold two-tone color scheme has made it one of the most sought-after GMT-Master II variations among collectors and enthusiasts alike.

Introduced in 1956, the Rolex Milgauss was designed for scientists and engineers, capable of withstanding magnetic fields up to 1,000 gauss thanks to a protective shield inside the case. The original reference 6541 featured a distinctive lightning bolt-shaped seconds hand and a rotating bezel.

While it was not a commercial success at first, the Milgauss was reintroduced in 2007 with modern updates and has since become a notable model in the Rolex catalog. The name combines the Latin mille (one thousand) and gauss, a unit of magnetic field measurement, underscoring its scientific purpose.

The modern Milgauss, reference 116400GV (Green), was released in 2014 with its distinctive Z-Blue dial. Its bold design quickly attracted a loyal following and became a cult classic within the Rolex lineup, a status that grew even stronger after the model was discontinued in 2023.

FRANCOIS BROCHET

François Brochet was a prolific French painter, sculptor, and engraver. Son of painter and playwright Henry Brochet, he was profoundly influenced by a 1942 meeting with Le Corbusier, who encouraged his artistic freedom through drawing.

Brochet's career flourished after 1946, when he created tapestries for St. Stephen's Cathedral and sculpted figures like Marie Noel. Around this time, he immersed himself in printmaking and photography, inspired by Japanese prints and 19th and 20th-century engravers. His first Paris exhibition took place in 1948. Over 54 years, he produced daily, resulting in over a thousand sculptures. His works were exhibited extensively in Paris, Chicago, New York, and Los Angeles, with several pieces acquired by the French Government.

Today, his former summerhouse serves as a gallery for his art, and over 100 of his polychrome wood sculptures are housed at the Museum of Visitation in Auxerre.

F. WIDAYANTO

F. Widayanto is one of Indonesia's most well-known ceramic artists, known for blending technical mastery with storytelling. His passion for art began in childhood and led him to study ceramics at Institut Teknologi Bandung, graduating in 1981. After starting in commercial pottery, he established his own studio in Tapos, Bogor in 1991, where he developed his distinctive sculptural style. His works often carry whimsical or allegorical narratives, and he has held numerous solo exhibitions in both ceramics and drawing, including a charcoal drawing show in Jakarta in 2000.

Stopping to Conquer draws from the Greek myth of Narcissus, reimagined through Widayanto's ceramic artistry. The sculpture shows a youthful, otherworldly figure with long, curved horns, crouched over a mirrored pool with small frogs resting on lily pads. The figure's gentle movements and focused gaze capture the moment Narcissus first sees his reflection in the water. Natural motifs like leaves and amphibians are integrated into the figure's body, blurring the line between human, nature, and myth. The title adds an ironic twist, suggesting that "conquering" happens not through force, but through stillness and self-absorption. The work invites viewers to reflect on vanity, desire, and the quiet yet consuming pull of self-obsession.

BUDHI BRASSCO

Budhi Brassco is a metal craft artist from Cirebon, West Java, who has been active since the early 2000s. In 2007, he founded Brassco Gallery in his hometown, specializing in handmade brass relief paintings that blend the theme of “Love” (Kasih) with natural and cultural symbols such as tigers, dragons, and motifs inspired by Borobudur, batik, and calligraphy. His creations also include plaques, souvenirs, ornamental reliefs, mosque domes, and monument icons. Among his most notable works are handmade brass portrait reliefs commissioned for the President of Indonesia, ministers, and ambassadors.

Budhi’s works have been featured in national exhibitions including Inacraft, Indokraft, and the Trade Expo Indonesia. He received the 2023 Best Metal-Based Craft Award from the West Java Dekranasda and, in 2025, presented the exhibition Kasih at Hotel Neo+ Kebayoran, Jakarta. Beyond his artistic achievements, he is committed to training local youth, especially school dropouts, in brass relief painting, with the aim of preserving the tradition, nurturing creative talent, and reducing unemployment.

DOLOROSA SINAGA

Dolorosa Sinaga is a prominent Indonesian sculptor whose work profoundly explores faith, crisis, solidarity, multiculturalism, and women's struggles. After studying at Institut Kesenian Jakarta (IKJ) and St. Martin's School of Art in London, she became known for her hands-on approach to sculpting, personally working with metal. Her art actively challenges the "male gaze," empowering her female subjects.

Her notable works include "Solidaritas," housed at Komnas Perempuan, depicting women in unity. Dolorosa Sinaga also served as Dean of the Faculty of Fine Arts at IKJ, where she continues to teach. In 1987, she founded the Somalaing Art Studio. Her work has been showcased globally, including a solo exhibition at the National Gallery, Jakarta (2001), and group shows at the National Gallery of the Philippines (1999) and Bentara Budaya Gallery, Jakarta (2001).

Over the 19th and 20th centuries, Ulysse Nardin earned an exceptional reputation as a master of deck chronometers for naval forces worldwide. The accuracy of these instruments was crucial for calculating longitude to determine the ship's position at sea. The House won awards for its excellence at the time and supplied its inventions to over 50 navies, geodesy institutes and astronomical observatories. Ulysse Nardin's pocket chronometers were some of the most prized and coveted chronometers among navy officers and merchant navy captains.

The Marine Torpilleur Dual Time combines the vintage elegance of the brand's marine chronometers with the technical sophistication of the UN-334 manufacture calibre. It features a fluted bezel, Roman numeral hour markers, and a small seconds counter at 6 o'clock. The date display at 2 o'clock can be adjusted forward or backward, while the "home time" indicator at 9 o'clock runs on a 24-hour cycle. Local time can be quickly set using pushers at 8 and 10 o'clock, and the calendar automatically synchronizes with any time adjustment. This blend of heritage design and modern engineering reflects Ulysse Nardin's enduring mastery of precision watchmaking.

MARIA TJUI

Maria Tjui (1934-2016), was an Indonesian artist known for her vibrant use of color and a style that encompassed realism, impressionism, and expressionism. Her paintings often depicted Bali's landscapes and the lives of ordinary people.

A strong advocate for women, Tjui believed that Indonesian women had great potential as painters, which often went unrealized due to social constraints. Her work is held in prestigious collections, including the National Gallery of Indonesia and by notable figures like B.J. Habibie, Tien Soeharto, and Adam Malik. She has also exhibited internationally, such as at the John F. Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., and was also involved in the revitalization of the Balai Budaya Jakarta.

LEO ELAND

Leo Eland was born in Java in 1884 and was a self-taught artist who lived and worked in Indonesia. He was actively involved in the Union of Dutch Indies Art Circles from the early 20th century. Eland was known for his mastery of light and shade, particularly in his depictions of Indonesian nature.

In 1920, he moved to The Hague but continued to paint Indonesian subjects. His work was featured in the International Colonial Exhibition in Paris (1931), though unfortunately, it was damaged by fire. Today, his paintings are part of several Dutch museum collections.
