AFFANDI

Affandi is one of Indonesia's most influential modern artists of the 20th century. Beginning his full-time artistic career in 1935, he later joined Kelompok Lima Bandung and became known for his bold colours, spontaneous gestures, and emotionally charged brushwork. Affandi received wide international recognition, including professorship honors, an honorary doctorate, and participation in major exhibitions such as the Venice and São Paulo Biennales.

A rare self-portrait of Affandi with his closest patron, collector, and lifelong friend

Raka and I (1971) portrays Affandi together with Raka Sumichan, rendered through vigorous, swirling lines and radiant yellow tones characteristic of Affandi's expressive style. The painting includes a handwritten inscription reading "Untuk Sd. Raka yang saya sayangi" (For my beloved brother Raka), revealing the artist's deep affection and personal connection to the subject.More than a double portrait, the painting stands as a deeply personal record of a friendship built over decades. Raka Sumichan was Affandi's most important patron and largest collector, supporting him throughout much of his career and playing a crucial role in the construction of the Affandi Museum. This work is particularly rare and sentimental, as it is the only known painting by Affandi bearing three signatures, underscoring the exceptional intimacy and historical importance of their relationship.

“Kusamba Boat”

Kusamba Boat (1971) is part of Affandi’s well-known series depicting boats from Kusamba, a coastal village in Bali and one of his recurring subjects. Rendered with vigorous, swirling brushstrokes, the painting transforms the boat into an energetic presence rather than a literal object. Bold lines and thick impasto create a sense of movement, as if the boat is being carried by wind and waves. Dominated by red, white, yellow, green, and black, the composition pulses with intensity and emotion.

HENDRA GUNAWAN

Born in Bandung, Hendra Gunawan was a pioneering Indonesian artist who began painting in the 1930s and became known for merging traditional Indonesian subjects with bold modern expression. He is often referred to as the "people's painter". His work has received international recognition and continues to be celebrated in major exhibitions and collections, including the Venice Biennale and institutions such as the Neka Art Museum and the Singapore Art Museum.

A rare early work by Hendra Gunawan portraying his close friend, maestro Affandi

In Affandi's Portrait, Hendra Gunawan portrays fellow Indonesian maestro Affandi through thick, forceful brushstrokes and an earthy, dramatic palette. The face emerges from layers of paint, marked by deep lines and textured surfaces. Rather than aiming for likeness alone, Hendra captures Affandi's emotional depth and expressive spirit, creating a powerful homage from one great artist to another.

ABDUL AZIZ

Abdul Aziz was an Indonesian artist known for his mastery of classical techniques blended with local cultural themes. Born in Purwokerto, he studied at the Indonesian Fine Art Academy (ASRI) before furthering his education at the Accademia di Belle Arti in Rome, where he immersed himself in the works of European masters. He then returned to Indonesia and settled in Bali.

In Dewi Pertiwi and Ibu Kartini, Abdul Aziz presents a compelling representation of womanhood and its multifaceted role in Indonesian society. He depicts Ibu Kartini, a key figure in Indonesia's women's emancipation movement, kneeling and resting against Dewi Pertiwi, the goddess of the earth. The intimate posture suggests a moment of seeking protection, guidance, or solace.

Executed in oil on fiberglass, the work reflects Aziz's experimental approach to materials. The absence of a signature is also a characteristic of works he held dear, allowing him to consider them unfinished and deeply personal.

CHU TEH-CHUN

Chu Teh-Chun is widely regarded as one of the most significant Chinese artists of the 20th century. He began his artistic training in Hangzhou in the 1930s before moving to Paris in 1955, where his work developed at the intersection of Eastern and Western traditions. Throughout his career, Chu exhibited internationally and became known for his ability to merge Chinese calligraphic discipline with the expressive freedom of European abstraction, while maintaining rigorous technical control rooted in his early academic training.

In Le Cœur du Silence, No. 3, Chu explores the concept of emptiness central to traditional Chinese painting. The composition is dominated by expansive areas of near-blank space, suggesting mist, fog, or an infinite atmospheric field. Subtle gestures, dots, and drifting lines in soft jade green, pale yellow, and earthy tones emerge within this quiet surface, creating a sense of movement and depth without fixed form. Rather than depicting a specific landscape, the painting evokes an inner, contemplative space, where silence, rhythm, and restrained energy coexist in balance.

GONG LILONG

Gong Lilong is a Chinese painter and a member of the Chinese Artists Association. He graduated from the Oil Painting Department of the Lu Xun Academy of Fine Arts in 1982 and later returned to the institution as Vice Professor, while also serving as Vice President of the Fine Arts Institute of Shenyang Province. His artistic language is distinctive, often portraying human figures with rounded, exaggerated forms inspired by Tang Dynasty figurines, conveying warmth, humor, and optimism.

In “Intimacy”, Gong Lilong depicts a tender moment between two figures set within a simplified outdoor landscape. The softly modeled, voluminous bodies and gentle gestures emphasize emotional closeness rather than physical realism. Their affectionate posture, combined with bright colours and smooth brushwork, creates a lighthearted and joyful atmosphere. Measuring approximately 190 x 170 cm, the monumental scale amplifies the presence of the figures.

SUNARYO

Sunaryo is a leading Indonesian multidisciplinary artist educated at the Bandung Institute of Technology and later in Italy. Initially trained as a sculptor and a former lecturer at ITB, he has since expanded his practice to include painting, printmaking, installation, and public monuments. Sunaryo is also the founder of Selasar Sunaryo Art Space and is regarded as one of Indonesia's most influential contemporary artists.

Balinese Dancers reflects Sunaryo's long-standing interest in depicting traditional dancers, a subject he frequently revisits in his practice. The painting presents Balinese female figures captured in quiet, deliberate poses, their bent knees, lowered gazes, and careful hand gestures suggesting the controlled movements of classical dance. Rather than portraying a lively performance, Sunaryo chooses an intimate moment of preparation and transition, highlighting the discipline, concentration, and ritual nature of Balinese dance.

“Mother and Child”

Abdul Aziz is known for his refined realist approach and his consistent exploration of illusionistic space in painting. One of his notable contributions is the development of the frame within a frame technique, a visual strategy he later refined into his signature trompe l’oeil style. Through this approach, Aziz creates the impression of depth and three-dimensionality, blurring the boundary between the painted surface and the viewer’s space.

Mother and Child is a clear example of this frame within a frame technique. The composition presents an intimate portrayal of a mother holding her child, with the baby gently grasping a mango. The painted inner border functions as a visual threshold, enhancing the illusion that the figures emerge from within the picture plane.

AHMAD SADALI

Ahmad Sadali is widely regarded as a pioneer of abstract art in Indonesia. Educated at the Bandung Institute of Technology and later in the United States, he developed a distinctive visual language that combines modern abstraction with spiritual and philosophical depth. Influenced by Cubism and modernist principles, Sadali's works are known for their textured surfaces, restrained compositions, and contemplative atmosphere, positioning him as a central figure in the development of Indonesian modern art.

This painting presents an abstract vertical composition dominated by layered shades of green and turquoise, enriched by a heavily textured surface. Four golden forms appear at the upper section, standing out against the muted background and drawing the viewer's eye upward. At the base, a horizontal gold line provides a sense of balance and grounding. The interplay of geometric markings, worn textures, and metallic accents reflects Sadali's enduring interest in materiality, structure, and the tension between erosion and transcendence.

DULLAH

Born in Surakarta to a family of batik makers, Dullah was immersed in artistic traditions from an early age. He was an active member of Seniman Indonesia Muda (SIM) and studied under influential figures such as S. Sudjojono and Affandi. Widely known as the “Revolutionary Painter,” Dullah documented scenes of struggle and resistance during the Dutch colonization, a body of work that later earned him the trust of President Soekarno. In 1950, he was appointed official artist and curator of Istana Merdeka, a position he held for nearly a decade, contributing significantly to Indonesia’s visual and cultural history.

In Landscape, Dullah presents a tranquil view of the Indonesian natural environment, marked by rolling hills, vegetation, and a distant mountain dominating the horizon. This work reveals a quieter side of Dullah’s practice, emphasizing harmony between land and space, and highlighting the enduring beauty of Indonesia’s landscape as an integral part of national identity.

LEE MAN FONG

Born in Guangzhou, Lee Man Fong spent his early years in Singapore before settling in Jakarta in the 1930s. He was trained in both Chinese Lingnan brush painting and Western oil painting, a dual mastery that shaped his distinctive artistic language. In 1936, he became the first non-Dutch artist to exhibit with the Dutch East Indies Association.

A Malino scholarship later took him to the Netherlands from 1949 to 1952, where exposure to European art further enriched his practice. Lee went on to exhibit internationally and served as a palace artist for President Sukarno, while also leading the Society of Chinese Artists in Indonesia. Following political changes in 1967, he relocated to Singapore and embraced the Nanyang style before returning to Jakarta in his later years.

Two Gold Fishes presents a serene depiction of two goldfish rendered with fluid brushstrokes and subtle gradations of red and orange. Set against a muted, atmospheric background, the fish appear to glide effortlessly through water, their flowing fins conveying gentle movement and harmony.

BASOEKI ABDULLAH

Basoeki Abdullah was one of Indonesia's most well-known painters, renowned for his exceptional mastery of realism and academic painting. Formally trained in The Hague, he developed strong technical foundations that later distinguished his work on both national and international stages. His international recognition rose significantly after winning a prestigious art competition commemorating the accession of Queen Juliana in the Netherlands. Abdullah's career positioned him as a key figure who bridged European academic traditions with Indonesian themes and sensibilities.

Heaven's Tale presents a poetic and mythic scene of a serene nude woman riding a group of galloping white horses across a luminous, cloud-filled sky. The powerful horses surge forward with grace and momentum, their muscular forms rendered with anatomical precision, while the female figure appears calm and composed amid the motion. Bathed in warm golden light, the swirling clouds and vibrant sky create a celestial atmosphere that enhances the sense of transcendence.

WIDAYAT

Widayat was born in Kutoarjo, Central Java, in 1919 and studied at the Indonesian Fine Art Academy (ASRI) in Yogyakarta, graduating in 1954. He later continued his studies in ceramics and landscape art in Nagoya, Japan, before returning to Indonesia to teach at ASRI. His works were widely exhibited both nationally and internationally, establishing him as one of Indonesia's most distinctive modern painters.

Three Birds in the Forest exemplifies Widayat's signature decorative style, presenting a dense, dreamlike forest animated by rhythmic patterns and layered textures. Stylized tree branches spread across the composition, dotted with leaf-like motifs, while three small birds perch quietly at the center, becoming subtle focal points amid the visual abundance. The earthy palette of greens, blues, and warm ochre tones enhances the painting's mystical atmosphere.

“Baris Dance”

Baris Dance is another example of Abdul Aziz’s distinctive frame within a frame technique, in which the painted border becomes an integral part of the composition. The work depicts a figure inspired by the Baris, a traditional Balinese war dance that embodies the discipline and spirit of a young warrior before battle. Shown in close view and seemingly emerging from within the frame, the dancer’s intense gaze and composed posture convey inner tension and readiness.

The presence of the sword and the richly colored costume elements emphasize strength, courage, and ceremonial pride. Through expressive brushwork and warm, earthy tones, Aziz shifts the focus away from physical movement toward the psychological presence of the warrior, reinforcing the dignity and gravity of the Baris tradition.

I DEWA PUTU MOKOH

I Dewa Putu Mokoh was a pioneering Balinese artist who played a crucial role in redefining the Pengosekan painting tradition in Ubud. Despite limited formal education and early resistance from his family, he trained under his uncles, the respected artists I Gusti Ketut Kobot and I Gusti Made Baret. He then developed a personal visual language characterized by gentle colours, clean outlines, and emotionally intimate subjects. His willingness to explore personal feelings and taboo themes brought him international recognition, including exhibitions at the Venice Biennale and the Fukuoka Art Museum.

In Frog Family, Mokoh presents a playful yet tender composition featuring anthropomorphic frogs arranged in a close, familial grouping. Rendered with patterned bodies, striped garments, and simplified forms, the figures evoke both humor and warmth.

This 1983 painting by Ahmad Sadali exemplifies his mastery of abstract art, with its bold use of texture, earthy tones, and spiritual undertones. The composition is defined by a dominant rectangular structure, layered with rich shades of black and brown, framed by accents of gold. These gold highlights, which gleam through the textured surface, evoke a sense of transcendence and are often associated with Sadali's exploration of spirituality and Islamic philosophy.

The heavily layered surface and rough textures create a tactile quality that emphasizes materiality, while the interplay between the dark central forms and the luminous gold edges suggests balance and harmony. The work resonates with Sadali's signature approach, where geometric abstraction serves as a vehicle for deeper reflections on faith, life, and the universe.

ANTONIO BLANCO

Antonio Blanco was a flamboyant and theatrical artist born in Manila to Spanish parents. After studying in New York and traveling extensively across Hawaii, Japan, and Cambodia, he settled in Bali in 1952, where he found lasting inspiration. Gifted land by the King of Ubud, Blanco built his home and studio, later becoming the Blanco Renaissance Museum. Blanco is known for his romantic and expressive style, and often focused largely on female figures and sensual themes. His collectors included figures such as President Sukarno, Ingrid Bergman, and Michael Jackson.

Kissing reflects Blanco's intimate and lyrical approach to the human figure. The composition captures a tender moment between entwined figures, rendered with fluid lines and soft washes of colour that dissolve clear boundaries between bodies. The gentle palette and dreamlike atmosphere emphasize emotion over physical detail, transforming the act of a kiss into a poetic expression of closeness and desire.

ARIFIEN NEIF

Arifien Neif was born in Surabaya in 1955 and is a self-taught Indonesian artist known for his slightly naïve style and distinctive figurative compositions. Before dedicating himself fully to painting in 1980, he worked as a mason and later assisted a friend with interior design projects, experiences that shaped his sensitivity to space and everyday life. Since the late 1980s, Neif has exhibited widely in Indonesia and Singapore, developing a visual language that blends impressionistic colour with a romantic, imaginative sensibility.

In The Family, Neif depicts a warm domestic interior inhabited by a father, a mother, and a child gathered closely together. A small black cat appears at the lower corner of the composition, adding a familiar, playful presence to the household scene. Rendered with elongated forms, soft gestures, and patterned surfaces, the painting transforms an everyday family moment into a tender and slightly dreamlike portrayal of togetherness.

KOEBOE SARAWAN

Koeboe Sarawan is an Indonesian surrealist painter known for combining realistic detail with philosophical and spiritual themes. A graduate of Institut Seni Indonesia Yogyakarta, he emerged from the Yogyakarta surrealist movement of the 1980s and was influenced by his family background in batik and traditional puppetry, as well as by his extensive travels. His working process often begins with photographic research and reflection, resulting in carefully rendered figures set within surreal environments.

In The Traveler / Toward Eternity, Koeboe portrays a group of figures walking away across a barren, desert-like landscape under a wide, cloud-filled sky. Dressed in simple, traditional clothing such as batik sarongs and tied hair, the figures gradually lose their human form as they recede into the distance, blending with the surrounding land. The soft color palette and subtle play of light and shadow create a quiet, contemplative atmosphere, reinforcing the painting's theme of a spiritual journey toward eternity.

UMI DACHLAN

A key figure in the Bandung School of painting, Umi Dachlan was renowned for her textured abstract canvases, often layered in deep maroon, gold, and her signature purple. Rooted in Islamic philosophy, her works reflect a spiritual connection to nature and music. She studied at Institut Teknologi Bandung (ITB) under Ahmad Sadali, a leading figure in modern Islamic art in Indonesia, graduating in 1968 as only the third female artist to do so.

In 1969, she broke barriers by becoming ITB's first female lecturer, teaching there until 1999. Over the years, she moved beyond her mentor's influence to establish her own iconography, earning a place in the discourse of Indonesian abstraction alongside artists such as Mochtar Apin, Popo Iskandar, and A.D. Pirous.

Her abstraction distilled forms from nature into symbolic rather than representational elements, allowing religion and nature to become her strongest creative impulses. Through abstraction, she found the freedom to express the sensations of spiritual reflection and the beauty of the natural world.

LUO FAHUI

Luo Fahui was born in Chongqing, China, in 1961 and graduated from the Sichuan Fine Art Institute in 1985. Growing up during the Cultural Revolution and coming of age in the period following China's Reform and Opening Up, Luo Fahui reflects deeply on the social, political, and cultural transformations of modern China. His work engages with the country's layered realities, where feudal traditions coexist with Communist ideology and rapid global integration.

In contrast to many of his avant-garde peers, Luo Fahui chose not to pursue a career centered in Beijing, Shanghai, or overseas. Instead, he establishes his practice in Chengdu, Sichuan, where he found sustained inspiration and artistic freedom. He has held numerous solo exhibitions at institutions including the Shanghai Art Museum, Zhangjiang Contemporary Arts Museum, and venues in Hong Kong, Macau, Indonesia, and the United Kingdom. His work has also been widely featured in major group exhibitions across China, Europe, and Asia, underscoring his role as

TIO TJAY

Tio Tjay was an Indonesian painter who spent much of his life in Brazil. From a young age, he showed a keen interest in Chinese painting and calligraphy, with his artistic talent recognized early on. In 1967, he immigrated to Brazil with his family, later exhibiting his work across São Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, Brasília, and Paraguay. Between 1971 and 1975, he lived in Manaus, where he formed close connections with local communities.

Tio Tjay developed a distinctive style that fused the bold, vibrant colors of Latin America with oriental aesthetics—creating works that reflected both the spirit of Indonesia and the exoticism of the Amazon.

LEO ELAND

Leonardus Joseph Eland (1884–1952), better known as Leo Eland, was born in Salatiga, Central Java. A self-taught artist, he became one of the most notable painters associated with the Mooi Indië genre during the first half of the twentieth century.

In his early years, he traveled widely across Java, Sumatra, Sulawesi, and Bali, where the tropical scenery and everyday life became enduring themes in his work. His close friendship with painter Carel Dake Jr. further helped him refine his skills and artistic vision. By the 1930s, his career flourished, with international exhibitions in Brussels, Antwerp, Paris, Milan, Leipzig, Dresden, and at world expositions in New York and San Francisco (1939). At the 1931 Colonial Exposition in Paris, his oil paintings and detailed dioramas, attracted great admiration, even from Queen Wilhelmina at the official opening.
