Amrus Natalsya, an artist born on 21 October 1933, has an enduring passion for contributing to the world of Indonesian art. As one of the founders of Sanggar Bumi Tarung, Natalsya has been devoted to Indonesian art for over five decades, spanning the Orde Lama, Orde Baru, and Reformation eras. Natalsya integrates sculpting techniques with typical Batak elements, creating a distinctive characteristic in his work. Additionally, he frequently addresses social issues and everyday human struggles with a touch of social realism.

One of his renowned series is the Chinatown series, which portrays the oppression faced by ethnic Chinese as minorities in Indonesia, particularly during the peak of the 'anti-Chinese' sentiment in 1998. Through these artworks, Natalsya utilizes art to express feelings of injustice and narrate the bitter experiences of the Chinese community. Natalsya skillfully crafts powerful visuals that capture the resilience and struggles of minorities, offering a profound insight into the social history of Indonesia.

History and art are two things that Amrus Natalsya has been passionate about since childhood. When he entered the Indonesian Academy of Fine Arts (ASRI) in 1954, Natalsya had the opportunity to meet other renowned painters such as Trubus, Sudarso, Hendra, Saptoto, and Widayat. During his time at ASRI, Natalsya focused on studying wood carving and sculpture under the guidance of Michael Wowor, who was not only his roommate but also a self-taught sculptor. The tools of chisels and hammers played a crucial role in aiding Natalsya's creative process in sculpting. One of his notable works that garnered attention was the 'Patung Orang Buta yang Dilupakan', which was created in Solo and managed to capture the interest of President Sukarno. Despite the sculptures retaining a rough and textured appearance, the expressions conveyed within them are incredibly powerful, making the artwork captivating to behold. Additionally, Natalsya's painting titled 'Kawan-kawanku' is also included in President Sukarno's collection.

Natalsya's artwork has been showcased in numerous national and international art galleries, including the National Gallery of Indonesia, Cemeti Gallery Yogyakarta, and the Museum of Modern and Contemporary Art Australia. As a leading figure in the 'Revolutionary Realism' movement in Indonesia, Natalsya has played a significant role in the advancement of Lekra art and Sanggar Bumi Tarung. His work not only serves as a source of inspiration for many young artists but also motivates them to address social and political themes in their own art.

With the passing of Amrus Natalsya on January 31, the Indonesian art world lost a great sculptor and painter who had made valuable contributions for over five decades. Neo Galley, with the exhibition "Sculpting Dreams, Painting Realities: In Memory of the Master, Amrus Natalsya," invites everyone to remember his valuable works. His enduring enthusiasm and dedication will be remembered as a valuable legacy of the history of Indonesian art. Rest in love, Amrus Natalsya.

Natalsya created a wooden sculpture titled “Armada Cheng Ho”, depicting a wooden ship with people on board. The sail was colored brick red with some strokes of yellow, while the main ship was brown. Cheng Ho was a Chinese Muslim admiral who led seven major maritime expeditions between 1405 and 1433. His armadas were some of the largest in history, comprising hundreds of ships and tens of thousands of sailors. His primary mission was to establish trade relations and demonstrate the power of the Ming Dynasty. Cheng Ho’s expeditions played a significant role in cultural exchange and diplomacy.

Calligraphy

Titled “Kaligrafi,” this wooden artwork depicts Arabic calligraphy carved into the brown-colored wood.

Upon closer look, the intricate texture becomes more apparent.

Natalsya skillfully combines traditional Arabic calligraphy with wooden elements, resulting in a visually striking and thought-provoking sculpture.

The painting “Semangat Hidup” by Amrus Natalsya is characterized by the prominent use of red, yellow, and blue.

At the left side, we could spot a black stroke, with Natalsya incorporating thick lines that adorn the entire painting.

If we look closer, Natalsya added the figurative of a person appearing from one of the lines, as well as a depiction of a bird.

This painting depicts lines that represent a life full of twists and turns, with a happy bird in the middle and a sad figure symbolizing hope and enthusiasm to continue living life.

The 2010 wooden sculpture “Perahu di Pinggir Sungai” by Amrus Natalsya beautifully captures the atmosphere of a fishing village. Natalsya skillfully depicts fishermen going about their daily activities around their boats, with the backdrop of residents’ houses and coconut trees adding to the village’s beauty. The carefully carved details create a nuanced portrayal of rural life and the surrounding nature.

The wooden sculpture entitled "Ke Pasar" by Amrus Natalsya, created in 1999, beautifully visualizes the daily life of people in the hills as they head to the market. In this work, Natalsya depicts several figures enthusiastically pushing carts of merchandise, carrying loads of goods, and holding their shopping bags. The details of this sculpture not only focus on market activity but also include elements of the surrounding environment, such as depictions of housing and trees. Natalsya succeeded in creating visual harmony that reflects the dynamics of rural community life, where people live, move, and interact in the context of going to the market in the middle of the hills.

The wood sculpture entitled "Jagoku" by Amrus Natalsya, created in 2003, showcases his artistic characteristics with the addition of elements such as trees, housing, and this time, a rooster. Alongside his distinctive sculptural style, Natalsya depicts roosters as an integral part of the daily life scenes of people heading to the market. The rooster, known as a symbol of courage, toughness, and prosperity, represents hope for an abundant and blessed life. The addition of this symbol enriches the meaning of the work, providing an additional dimension that creates a sense of beauty and vitality in the lives of rural people.
