Ahmad Sadali

Ahmad Sadali was one of the pioneers of Indonesian abstract art and a leading figure of the Bandung School (Mazhab Bandung). Deeply influenced by Abstract Expressionism and Islamic philosophy, he developed a distinctive visual language that united geometric abstraction with spiritual contemplation. After graduating from Institut Teknologi Bandung (ITB) in 1953, he continued his studies at the State University of Iowa and the Art Students League of New York. His achievements were recognized with the Anugerah Seni Indonesia in 1972.

Golden Bars on a Plane with Traces of Gold exemplifies Sadali's mastery of abstraction through its restrained composition and richly tactile surface. It is organised into two distinct horizontal planes. The upper plane is set against a muted grey ground, where a series of raised, richly textured golden bars stand vertically across the surface. Beneath each bar are fragments of weathered turquoise, introducing subtle accents of colour and reinforcing the work's layered materiality. In contrast, the lower plane is rendered in deep earthy black tones, punctuated by geometric turquoise forms that echo the elements above.

Affandi

Affandi is one of Indonesia's most influential modern artists and a pioneer of expressive painting in Southeast Asia. Affandi painted with remarkable spontaneity, often applying paint directly from the tube to create vigorous, swirling lines that conveyed movement and feeling. His distinctive approach earned international acclaim, and his works were exhibited at prestigious events such as the Venice Biennale and the São Paulo Biennale. His achievements were further recognized with an honorary doctorate from the National University of Singapore and the International Peace Prize from the Dag Hammarskjöld Foundation.

Boats at the Beach, 1981 reflects one of Affandi's most enduring subjects, the coastal landscape and the everyday life of Indonesian fishermen. Several boats dominate the foreground. They are animated by sweeping, expressive brushstrokes that make them appear almost alive. Above them, swirling clouds and a luminous horizon echo the same rhythmic energy, uniting sea, sky, and land into a single dynamic composition.

While the energetic strokes may appear instinctive, they are carefully composed to preserve the structure of the scene. The painting exemplifies Affandi's signature ability to transform an ordinary landscape into an intensely expressive and emotionally charged experience.

Srihadi Soedarsono

Srihadi Soedarsono is one of Indonesia's foremost modern maestros. He is well-known for transforming landscapes and figurative subjects into poetic meditations on memory, spirituality, and human existence. His distinguished career earned him numerous awards, including the National Award for Contemporary Art (1971), the Cultural Award from Australia (1973), Best Participant at the Jakarta Biennale III for Indonesian Painting (1978), and a Fulbright Grant from the United States Government (1980).

In Two Women – Dialogue on the Beach, 2015 Srihadi presents two elongated female figures standing quietly on a vast golden shoreline. Their bodies are rendered in the same warm ochre tones as the sand so that they appear almost inseparable from the landscape itself. One woman faces outward while the other turns gently toward her companion, holding a delicate cluster of white flowers. Above them, a narrow band of brilliant blue sea stretches across the horizon, punctuated by a few distant fishing boats that subtly evoke the rhythm of Indonesia's coastal life.

Through this restrained composition and harmonious palette, Srihadi transforms a simple meeting by the sea into a timeless reflection on companionship, contemplation, and the quiet dialogue between humanity and nature.

Basoeki Abdullah

Basoeki Abdullah ranks among Indonesia's most accomplished realist painters. Educated at the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in The Hague, he gained international recognition after winning a portrait competition commemorating the accession of Queen Juliana of the Netherlands. His remarkable ability to render the human figure with elegance and precision earned him commissions from President Soekarno, members of royal families, and heads of state from around the world. While celebrated for his portraits and mythological scenes, Basoeki also turned his attention to Indonesia's landscapes and wildlife, applying the same meticulous observation and technical refinement to the natural world.

Tiger Family presents a rare moment of stillness rather than the drama often associated with wild animals. A vigilant pair of tigers shelters their cubs beneath the canopy of a dense tropical forest. Light falls gently across their striped coats, revealing subtle variations in colour, texture, and anatomy. Loose, painterly foliage contrasts with the carefully modelled figures, allowing the animals to emerge naturally from their surroundings. The balance between meticulous observation and atmospheric brushwork exemplifies Basoeki's mastery of realism.

S. Sudjojono

S. Sudjojono is widely regarded as the father of Indonesian modern art and a central figure in shaping the nation's artistic identity. As a co-founder of Persagi (Persatuan Ahli Gambar Indonesia) and Seniman Indonesia Muda, he challenged the romanticized Mooi Indie style that dominated colonial-era painting. Instead, he championed a realist approach that portrayed ordinary Indonesians with psychological depth and social awareness. For Sudjojono, art was a truthful reflection of lived experience rather than an idealized vision of beauty.

Painted in 1956, Lunch exemplifies Sudjojono's commitment to realism and his profound respect for everyday life. The painting portrays a man seated in quiet contemplation as he eats a simple meal wrapped in a banana leaf, likely nasi kucing, a humble dish commonly associated with the working class. His weathered face, worn clothing, and relaxed posture reveal the dignity of an ordinary individual without embellishment or sentimentality. Through this intimate scene, Lunch reflects Sudjojono's enduring belief that the everyday lives of ordinary Indonesians deserve to be seen with honesty, empathy, and respect.

Sunaryo

Sunaryo is one of Indonesia's foremost contemporary artists and the founder of Selasar Sunaryo Art Space. He first established his reputation as a sculptor before expanding his practice to painting, printmaking, installation, and public art. Across these disciplines, Sunaryo explores the relationship between material, space, and spirituality through a restrained yet deeply contemplative visual language. His outstanding contribution to Indonesian art has been recognized with numerous honors, including the Chevalier dans l'Ordre des Arts et des Lettres from the French Ministry of Culture.

Wingbeat of a White Bird, 2008 is built upon a striking contrast between dense texture and expansive open space. The left side of the composition is layered with thick black paint, bold passages of deep red, and subtle accents of green, forming a richly textured field marked by scratches, cracks, and embedded materials. In contrast, the right side opens into a broad black plane, interrupted only by the faint silhouette of a white bird gliding across the upper edge. The restrained palette, punctuated by deep red accents, heightens the interplay of colour, texture, and space.

Rather than depicting the bird literally, Sunaryo reduces it to a fleeting gesture that animates the otherwise still composition. The dialogue between heavily worked textures and quiet expanses reflects his distinctive approach to abstraction, where materiality, balance, and contemplation become the essence of the work.

Antonio Blanco

Antonio Blanco was a flamboyant artist born in Manila to Spanish parents whose life and career became inseparable from the artistic landscape of Bali. After studying in New York and traveling through Hawaii, Japan, and Cambodia, he settled in Ubud in 1952, where he found lasting inspiration in the island's culture, mythology, and natural beauty.

Immersed in this vibrant environment, Blanco developed a dreamlike visual language characterized by fluid lines, luminous colors, and theatrical compositions, with women as his enduring source of inspiration. His remarkable career brought him international recognition, earning distinctions such as the Tiffany Fellowship, the Chevalier du Sahametrui of Cambodia, and the Order of Cruz de Caballero from King Juan Carlos I of Spain.

Blanco's fascination with feminine beauty and theatrical presentation finds a compelling expression in Happiness. A reclining female figure occupies the center of the composition, her body suggested through loose, expressive lines and delicate washes of pastel green, blue, and soft pink. Gently holding a red apple, she conveys a quiet sense of contentment that echoes the work's title. An intricately carved frame with floral scrollwork and sculpted apples repeats the apple motif beyond the painted surface. More than a decorative border, the frame becomes an integral part of the composition, complementing the subject and enriching its dreamlike atmosphere.

Dullah

Dullah was one of Indonesia's foremost realist painters, renowned for documenting the nation's history and cultural identity through art. Born in Surakarta to a family of batik makers, he studied under S. Sudjojono and Affandi as a member of Seniman Indonesia Muda (SIM). During the Indonesian Revolution, Dullah earned the title of the "Revolutionary Painter" for his depictions of the nation's struggle for independence. His achievements later led President Soekarno to appoint him as the official painter and curator of Istana Merdeka.

Barong and Rangda brings to life one of Bali's most enduring mythological narratives, the eternal struggle between opposing forces. In Balinese belief, Barong is the benevolent protector who represents harmony and goodness, while Rangda, the fearsome queen of darkness, embodies destructive power and chaos. Rather than depicting a final victory of one over the other, their confrontation symbolizes the balance that must exist between opposing energies.

Dullah captures this dramatic encounter through his signature realist style. The expressive masks, flowing white mane of Barong, ceremonial umbrellas, and dynamic gestures of the performers faithfully recreate the atmosphere of a traditional Balinese dance. Warm earthy tones and carefully controlled light draw attention to the central figures, while the surrounding dancers heighten the sense of ritual and movement.

“Flora Fauna”

Widayat was one of Indonesia's most distinctive modern painters, well-known for his richly decorative visual language. He studied at ASRI, now the Indonesian Institute of the Arts Yogyakarta, where he explored a wide range of artistic styles, including Cubism, Impressionism, Realism, and abstraction. Over time, he developed a highly personal style inspired by the batik-making tradition passed down by his mother. Fine, repetitive lines and intricate patterns became the hallmark of his paintings, merging decorative rhythm with careful observation of nature.

Flora Fauna, 1978 portrays a vast, imagined forest teeming with life. Layer upon layer of rounded tree canopies, dense foliage, and flowering plants extend across the canvas, creating an expansive landscape inhabited by buffalo, deer, elephants, birds, and other wildlife. Widayat arranges these elements into a carefully orchestrated decorative composition. Every tree, leaf, and animal is rendered with countless short, repetitive brushstrokes inspired by the intricate craftsmanship of batik. The warm earthy palette unifies the composition, transforming the natural world into a richly textured vision that exemplifies Widayat's unmistakable artistic language.

Lee Man Fong

Lee Man Fong was one of the most distinguished artists of the Nanyang tradition, celebrated for seamlessly blending Chinese ink painting with Western oil painting. Born in Guangzhou, he spent his early years in Singapore before settling in Jakarta in the 1930s. He became the first non-Dutch artist to exhibit with the Dutch East Indies Association in 1936. A Malino scholarship later brought him to the Netherlands, where European artistic influences further enriched his practice.

Upon returning to Indonesia, he led the Yinhua Meishu Xiehui (Society of Chinese Artists in Indonesia) and served as President Sukarno's palace artist. Following his move to Singapore in 1967, Lee further developed his signature style by integrating the elegance of Chinese brushwork with the modern sensibilities of the Nanyang School.

A Pair of Goldfish exemplifies Lee Man Fong's poetic interpretation of nature, shaped by the elegance of Chinese ink painting and the refined sensibility of the Nanyang style. Two luminous goldfish, rendered in vibrant shades of orange, red, and white, glide gracefully through the composition. Their radiant forms contrast with the subdued, earthy background, where rocks and aquatic plants dissolve into delicate washes reminiscent of classical Chinese landscapes.

Trubus Sudarsono

Trubus Sudarsono (1926–1966) was a self-taught Indonesian artist known for his mastery of realism in painting and sculpture. Born in Yogyakarta to a farming family, he developed artistic skills from an early age, later learning from masters Affandi and S. Sudjojono. Active in Seniman Indonesia Muda and Pelukis Rakyat during Indonesia's independence struggle, his works often depicted nature, traditional life, and the beauty of Indonesia's people with meticulous detail.

Trubus contributed to major public artworks, including the "Welcome Statue" in Jakarta, and represented Indonesia in the 1954 cultural mission to Czechoslovakia. He later established a studio in Sleman, Yogyakarta, producing notable paintings of Balinese dancers and national hero statues, such as General Oerip Soemohardjo in Magelang. Caroline R. Young Caroline Young was born in Hong Kong and later moved to Hawaii for university, where an encounter with artist Lam Oi Char changed the course of her life. Although she initially studied French, she soon dedicated herself to painting under her mentor's guidance. Young works in watercolour, acrylic, and gouache on Japanese silk using the traditional Chinese gongbi technique. The process requires countless translucent layers of colour, resulting in extraordinary precision and a luminous quality that seems to radiate from within. A single painting often takes six to eight weeks to complete.

Ancient Chinese mythology lies at the heart of Young's artistic practice. Stories of Chang-Er, Kwan Yin, dragons, and celestial beings become richly symbolic compositions that weave together history, folklore, Buddhism, and Taoist philosophy. Through these narratives, she explores themes that transcend cultural boundaries while celebrating China's artistic and literary heritage. Her paintings have been exhibited throughout the United States and are held in major collections, including the Bowers Museum and the Pacific Asia Museum.

Lee Jung Woong

Lee Jungwoong is a contemporary Korean artist celebrated for his masterful fusion of Eastern traditions and Western painting techniques. He graduated with a Master's degree in Fine Arts from Keimyung University in 2007. Working with Korean rice paper, Chinese brushes, ebony ink, and oil paint, Lee has developed a distinctive visual language that combines hyperrealism with the expressive spirit of East Asian calligraphy. His paintings explore the relationship between materiality, movement, and spirituality, transforming familiar objects into quiet meditations on balance, time, and artistic practice.

Lee is best known for his iconic Brush series, in which the humble calligraphy brush becomes both subject and symbol. Rendered with extraordinary precision, each strand of hair, polished wooden handle, and ink-soaked surface reveals his remarkable technical mastery. Yet these works extend beyond realism. Through the contrast between fluid ink and controlled brushwork, empty space and solid form, Lee reflects on the complementary forces of yin and yang while bridging Eastern philosophy with Western painterly traditions. His paintings have been exhibited internationally across Asia, Europe, and the United States.

I Wayan Cahya

I Wayan Cahya is an Indonesian realist painter who studied at Institut Seni Indonesia (ISI) Yogyakarta from 1985 to 1992. To deepen his understanding of realism, he also studied photography, refining his observation of light, composition, and perspective. Since 1987, Cahya has participated in numerous group exhibitions across Jakarta, Yogyakarta, Solo, and Surabaya. His paintings are distinguished by their technical precision, dramatic lighting, and meticulous attention to detail.

Hunting unfolds as a visual narrative across four interconnected panels, capturing the precise sequence of a cheetah stalking, pursuing, and finally confronting its prey. Rather than presenting a single frozen moment, Cahya depicts the progression of the hunt, allowing the viewer's eye to move naturally from one panel to the next. Soft golden light filters through a hazy landscape. It creates a dramatic atmosphere that heightens the tension between predator and prey.

Every detail, from the cheetah's powerful stride to the shifting dust and carefully rendered landscape, demonstrates the artist's mastery of realism and observation. The panoramic format further reinforces the sense of movement, transforming the painting into a cinematic portrayal of nature's relentless rhythm

Hasan

Hasan was born in Sumenep, Madura, and currently resides in Klaten, Central Java. He is an artist who earned both his undergraduate and master's degrees from the Indonesian Institute of the Arts in Surakarta. With over two decades of experience in the art world, he has established himself as a prominent figure in contemporary Indonesian art.

Throughout his career, Hasan has participated in numerous prestigious exhibitions, including the KONTRAKSI Nusantara Fine Arts Exhibition at the National Gallery of Indonesia and Sepayung Indonesia at Keraton Mangkunegaran Surakarta. His achievements include being selected for the Grand Art Exhibition organized by the Indonesian Ministry of Education and Culture and receiving a nomination for the BAZAAR Art Award in 2010.

For Hasan, painting is not only a form of artistic expression but also a medium to convey his feelings about various issues affecting the world, both directly and through different media. He addresses profound and personal issues, translating them into imaginative and symbolic visual forms such as symbols of monsters, fire, tree trunks, stones, heads, eyes, mountains, and human figures. Collectively, his artworks create a contemporary surrealistic atmosphere.

Ajan Misbach

Ajan Misbach is a self-taught Indonesian painter who later developed his artistic practice at Barli Art Studio. His works have been exhibited in several notable venues, including Gallery Kita and Julian Nyland Gallery.

Misbach's paintings are recognizable for their distinctive visual language that blends childlike imagery with fantastical distortions. Through these surreal compositions, he constructs imaginative scenes that invite viewers to explore layered meanings and interpretations within his whimsical yet enigmatic world.

I Dewa Putu Mokoh

I Dewa Putu Mokoh was a pioneering Balinese artist who redefined the art of Pengosekan, Ubud, by blending traditional wayang-inspired techniques with contemporary, often personal and emotional themes. Despite limited formal education and early resistance from his family, he trained under his uncles—renowned artists I Gusti Ketut Kobot and I Gusti Made Baret.

Encouraged by Dutch artist Rudolf Bonnet to move beyond classical epics, Mokoh developed a distinctive style marked by gentle colors, clean lines, and intimate depictions of Balinese life. His bold exploration of human emotion and taboo subjects gained international acclaim, including shows at the Venice Biennale (1993) and Fukuoka Art Museum (1995). Mokoh remains a key figure in the evolution of modern Balinese art.
